Billings to Hear Gray Case Review

NEW MADRID – Circuit Judge Marshall Craig of Sikeston, has disqualified himself in the Dan Westley Gray case. He said he feels the same issues will be heard in the hearing that was heard previously in Gray's trial and he might be influenced by prior decisions. Judge William H. Billings of Kennett, has been appointed for the hearing.

Gray, 42, serving a 60-year sentence for second degree murder, has been given a review by the Missouri Supreme Court on orders from Federal Judge John W. Oliver of Kansas City.

In ordering the review, the federal district court declared it had "determined that appellant was afforded assistance of counsel which was so inadequate and ineffective that his federal constitutional right to the effective assistance of counsel was violated."

Date of the review has not been set.

Since he was sentenced in 1961 of slaying New Madrid County Deputy Sheriff C. L. Phillips, Gray has been fighting for a new trial. Twice he carried his appeal the federal district court after the Missouri court had affirmed his conviction and sentence.

Gray was convicted of murdering Phillips on Sept. 12, 1960, when the deputy and Sheriff W. L. Ramsey tried to arrest him on a burglary warrant.

The sheriff was wounded in the shoulder and lost an eye.

Three Hurt In Collision

Three were injured Saturday afternoon at East Malone and Ingram in a two car collision.

A 1965 Chevrolet, driven by Homer G. Halford, 58, of 652 Matthews, collided with a 1964 Chrysler driven by Rosa Jean Galemore, 22, of 708 South Main St., Charleston.

Both drivers suffered minor injuries along with Frankie Jo Skelton, 1214 Charleston Ave., Charleston, a passenger in the Galemore vehicle. Skelton suffered a face injury.

Four were killed in traffic accidents over the weekend and a fifth died Saturday from injuries suffered in an accident Thursday morning.

Two New Madrid young men, Tommie Bibbs Jr., and James Lee Brown, 22, were killed Saturday at 10:30 p.m., on highway 61, three miles south of Sikeston.

It was not determined who was driving the 1960 Pontiac but the patrol reported the car was speeding, when the driver lost control, skidded off the road 840 feet, and struck a culvert, throwing three passengers from the car.

Brown died enroute to a Memphis hospital. His body and that of Bibbs were taken to Richards Funeral Home at New Madrid.

Clyde Griffin, 62, Arbyrd, died at 1:35 a.m. Saturday in a Memphis hospital, as the result of injuries he received in a highway accident, Thursday morning on highway 25 in Cardwell.

His body was taken to the McDaniel Funeral Home in Kennett.

He was driving a 1966 Rambler, when he lost control, ran off the road and struck a utility pole.

Two died in an accident Sunday 4:55 p.m. on highway 67, one mile north of Silva.

A 1968 Dodge, driven by Jewell Walker, 58, Patterson, stopped to make a left turn, when her car was struck in the rear by a 1967 Mercury, driven by Wyatt Davis Jr., 38, Poplar Bluff.

A 1968 GMC tractor trailer, driven by Danny Demont, 39, Cuba, then struck the Walker car, causing it to overturn.

Mrs. Walker died at the scene. A passenger in her car, Goldie Layton, 53, St. Louis, sister of Mrs. Walker, was dead on arrival at Doctors hospital in Poplar Bluff. Both ladies were sisters of D. R. Maloney, 307 Dorothy street, Sikeston.

The body of Walker was taken to Gish-Bowles Funeral Home in Piedmont. Layton was taken to a St. Louis funeral home.

Heavy U.S. Casualties Goal Of Captured Enemy Document

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command has a captured enemy document stating that Hanoi's goals are to inflict heavy American casualties to prevent de-escalation of the Vietnam war while the United States is in a position of strength, official sources said today.

The informants said the document was captured north of Saigon Sept. 5 and outlines a program for implementing the Communist Command's battle plans.

However, the disclosure was coupled with an announcement that enemy activity had dropped to its lowest level in Saigon and 11 surrounding provinces since the week ending last July 26.

One source said: "The enemy's intentions remain obscure and his immediate goals are unclear. There has been no evidence of a large-scale effort planned for the immediate future.

The captured document said heavy American losses in past campaigns had forced the United States to halt the bombing of North Vietnam and to withdraw 25,000 troops during the past summer.

It emphasized what it termed Viet Cong and North Vietnamese diplomatic successes compelling the United States to fight passively and negotiate at the same time in Paris.

Under one heading termed "conspiracies of the United States in the near future," the document said American policy is to de-Americanize the war gradually with emphasis placed on the preservation of U.S. manpower and material strength, trying to end the war in a strong position.

The document instructed enemy troops to destroy the South Vietnamese government and its administrative machinery; increase military action and expand the armed forces; heighten the role of the Viet Cong's revolutionary government; and increase civilian, military and political proselyting.

An official U.S. assessment of the war said elements of four North Vietnamese divisions threatening the 3rd Corps military zone had pulled back to base areas along the Cambodian border, and the enemy 5th Division's "possible movement northward toward the Cambodian border further complicates the situation and offers no tangible indication of the unit's intentions."

The assessment continued: "Added to the difficulties of judgments is the lack of information received during the week on the 7th, 9th and 1st Divisions.

"We estimate the coming week will see a continued shifting of units with possibly a more definite picture of subordination, areas of likely activity and intentions emerging. The divisional units are not likely to engage in heavy actions, but localized activity by sub-region forces can be expected as they attempt to complete resupply, reconnaissance and preparations for a more intensive offensive period in October.

"We think that the positioning of the divisional forces is a repeat of the pattern seen previously when these units were engaged in reorganization and refitting in preparation for major actions, and that this positioning in the border sanctuaries does not indicate a de-escalation by the enemy."

In one of the few actions reported this morning, military spokesmen said North Vietnamese troops attacked an American armored column three miles south of the demilitarized zone but were beaten back in a four-hour fight.

Man, 21, Drowns in Farm Pond

The body will be in the funeral home and may be viewed until prior to the funeral.

Purge That Ousted Dubeck Camp Spreads All Over Czechoslovakia

PRAGUE (AP) — A weekend purge that swept reformer Alexander Dubcek and his supporters from Communist party and government leadership spread today throughout Czechoslovakia.

Reports reached Prague of new regional shakeups from eastern Slovakia to northwestern Bohemia in the Communist party and in the National Front, which controls organizations outside the party.

Czechoslovakia's Communist bosses, toeing the pro-Soviet Line, had promised a sweeping party shakeup of "social organizations, state and economic apparatus, science and culture" in announcing the purges Sunday.

President Ludvik Svoboda said a new government would be announced today. Nine cabinet members were thrown out or had their jobs abolished.

Dubcek, 47, the former Communist party boss and still very popular, was ousted from the ruling Presidium and removed as president of the National Assembly. But he retained his seat on the party's Central Committee.

Josef Smrkovsky, one of Dubcek's closest aides in the 1968 reform era from January until the Aug. 22 Soviet invasion, was removed as vice president of the National Assembly.

The Czechoslovak news agency CTK said party chief Gustav Husak told a plenary meeting of the Central Committee last Thursday that new membership cards will be issued and that a future plenary session will deal with such a proposal.

Husak said, according to CTK, that the card replacement would not only be "a formal act" but would rid the party of rank-and-file members "who are unable to get rid of views hostile to our teachings." He said every member's attitude regarding political views, work and character would be assessed.

Smrkovsky and former Foreign Minister Jiri Hajek were among nine men expelled from the Central Committee, three of them being thrown out of the party itself. Nineteen other liberal members resigned under pressure. The 29th to leave was Planning Minister Frantisek Vlasak, who was expelled as an alternate member.

Josef Kempny, 49, a conservative, replaced Dubcek within the Presidium and was one of six deputy premiers named in the new government. Kempny also was among 13 new conservatives placed on the Central Committee in a distinct shift toward orthodox Communist control.

Dubcek's retention on the Central Committee was surprising in view of Husak's report accusing him of repeated errors in the months leading to the invasion by Warsaw Pact members.

Stevenson May Enter Race for Dirksen Seat

WASHINGTON (AP) — The bearer of one of the most prominent names in recent Democratic history, Adlai E. Stevenson III, has decided to seek the Illinois Senate seat of the late Everett M. Dirksen, authoritative sources say.

But he may face a primary challenge in March from a Chicago congressman.

Rep. Roman C. Pucinski, 50, is considering a bid next year for the seat now occupied by Sen. Ralph T. Smith, the Republican named to succeed Dirksen.

Stevenson—the 38-year-old state treasurer who is the son of the former governor and twotime Democratic presidential nominee—is expected to declare himself a candidate in November.

If Pucinski decides to challenge him, it could set up only the second contested statewide Democratic primary in some 35 years, according to Illinois political observers.

Kopechnes Say Public Curiosity Should Not Justify Autopsy

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP) — An attorney for Mary Jo Kopechne's parents said today the public's curiosity about how she died in Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's car should not justify an autopsy on her body.

"There must be proof of a crime and that an autopsy can prove or disprove the guilt or innocence of one suspected of criminal conduct," said Joseph F. Flanagan, attorney for the Kopechne's who moved for dismissal of a Massachusetts petition for exhumation and autopsy.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Kopechne of Berkeley Heights, N.J., were in the courtroom of Common Pleas Judge Bernard C. Brominski when arguments began today. It was the first time they have been present during a legal fight against disturbing their daughter's grave.

Flanagan repeated his claim that Dist. Atty. Edmund Dinis of New Bedford, Mass., had failed to provide sufficient evidence that a crime was committed when Miss Kopechne died in the July 18 car accident, on Chappaquiddick Island, off the Massachusetts coast.

Dinis has said that there was blood on Miss Kopechne's blouse and in her mouth and nose and this "may or may not be consistent with death by drowning."

Death by drowning was the ruling made by a Massachusetts medical examiner. No autopsy was performed.

Flanagan said that the alleged new evidence that Dinis provided in an amendment to his petition still was insufficient.

"The test of whether or not an autopsy will be ordered cannot be based upon guesswork or speculation," Flanagan told the court.

Dinis was not in the courtroom. His argument against dismissal of the autopsy petition was made by Armand Fernandes, an assistant district attorney from Dukes County, Mass.

Armstrong, Aldrin and Collins Begin World Tour

HOUSTON (AP) — The three Americans who went "in peace for all mankind" to the moon embark today on a world tour to promote good will on earth.

Bearing personal greetings to foreign heads of state from President Nixon, Apollo 11 astronauts Neil Armstrong, Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. and Michael Collins are scheduled to visit 22 nations in 38 days.

They will present to each country a replica of the moon landing plaque bearing the inscription "We came in peace for all mankind" and signed by each astronaut and the President.

The astronauts, scheduled to leave Houston today for the first stop in Mexico City, will be accompanied by their wives.

The three are the first astronauts to undertake a world tour in behalf of the United States and the first three-man American space team to go abroad.

Their itinerary does not—with the exception of Yugoslavia— take them to Communist controlled nations or to the warring countries of the Middle East, although they have scheduled stops in Iran and Turkey.

Col. Frank Borman, commander of the Apollo 8 lunar mission, visited the Soviet Union this spring, prior to the Apollo 11 moon shot.

In addition to replicas of the moon landing plaque, the astronauts will present heads of state with metal discs bearing messages—each reduced to the size of a pinhead—from 73 nations wishing the Apollo 11 mission success. The Original also was left on the moon.

No samples of lunar material gathered by Armstrong and Aldrin will be taken on the tour, National Aeronautics and Space Administration officials said.

Nixon telephoned Armstrong at his Seabrook, Tex., home Sunday to wish him and the others luck on the trip. The President invited the astronauts and their wives to dinner at the White House on the day they returned home, Nov. 5.

From Mexico City they will go to Bogota, Columbia; Buenos Aires, Argentina, and Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, in South America before flying to the Canary Islands Oct. 4.

In western Europe they have stops in Madrid, Paris, Amsterdam, Brussels, Oslo, Cologne, Berlin, London and Rome. After visiting Belgrade Oct. 18-19 they go to Ankara, Turkey; Kinshasa, The Congo, and Tehran, Iran. Asian and Pacific stops are Bombay, India; Dacca, Pakistan; Bangkok, Thailand; Darwin and Sydney, Australia; Guam; Seoul, and Tokyo. They will stop at Honolulu enroute to Houston.

McNamara Outlines World Bank Goals

WASHINGTON (AP) - World Bank President Robert S. McNamara today told of grim, worsening conditions in the underfed, undereducated and overpopulated parts of the world and said only a broad program of advice as well as money can help.

"What we need - and what we must fashion - is a more effective overall development strategy," McNamara told the governors of four major international financial and development organizations gathered here for their annual joint meeting.

Governors of the bank and its affiliates, the International Development Association and the International Finance Corporation, plus the International Monetary Fund, began five days of hard stop talk.

McNamara, the former U. S. secretary of defense completing his first full year as head of the Washington - based bank, said his findings on recent trips to Latin America, Asia and Africa confirmed the new course he charted last year.

"Everything I saw supported our decision in the bank to give a new emphasis to population planning, educational advance and agricultural growth," he said.

But he said he also found that, while solving those problems is fundamental, "no such strategy will be complete unless it provides for an attack on the interrelated problems of unemployment, urganization and industrialization."

McNamara has in the past put heavy emphasis on solving the problem of too-rapid population increase, and today called it "the greatest single obstacle to the economic and social advancement of the majority of peoples in the underdeveloped world."

The bank has set up a new Population Projects Department, which McNamara said already has found that "the immediate need is less for financial assistance than for technical advice and counsel."

For the rest of this week, the governors - who are finance ministers of central bankers of their countries - will hear speeches in public and negotiate behind closed doors on the problems of the world's money, trade and aid to underdeveloped nations.

The meeting lasts until Friday, and on the final day the IMF governors are expected to vote into effect a new system of "paper gold" - formally, Special Drawing Rights - to supplement the worldwide supply of reserves nations use to settle their accounts.

Daley Chides Trial Coverage

CHICAGO (AP) — Mayor Richard J. Daley says radio and television are providing unfair coverage of the trial of eight persons accused of fomenting violence at the 1968 Democratic National Convention.

Daley, addresseding the Catholic Lawyers Guild of Chicago, said Sunday that broadcast trial coverage so far encouraged violence, distorted truth and obstructed justice.

"It presents fragments of events," said Daley. "Whatever is extreme and violent and moving it reports out of context without giving all the facts, a practice that would not be allowed in the courtroom."

Daley claimed that an attmempt was being made to focus attention on the demonstrations outside the courtroom rather than the trial proceedings.

Hoffman ordered two of the attorneys - Gerald B. Lefcourt of New York and Michael. E. Tiger of Los Angeles - jailed Friday for failing to appear at the beginning of the trial. The two were later released on personal recognizance bonds.

RANDOM COMMENT

While clearing our desk the other day, we came across some jottings which, for pure bias and petulance of view, would be different to top. There being few things so satisfying as sharing prejudices, here are a few of ours:

The Vietnam War: Not even children can understand this. We're fighting a war no one seems to want. We're fighting a war which no one seems to think can be won. We are allied with a faction which appears to be antagonistic and resentful of our presence, but which is willing to accept arms, money, and other items as being their due. Puzzle: How does this country get out without losing, or winning, the war?

The Administration: Our general impression is that President Nixon is out to please everybody, but is having trouble getting some of his nominees past just a few Congressmen. One think he's good at: accumulating real estate.

Weather Forecasting: Why don't we just give up and face the fact that we aren't any better at this than we ever were? The only difference is that we have been to trust those fellows on TV who sound so authoritative and who turn out to be so wrong. Just like us.

Football: Anyone who has ever worn a football uniform knows that this is no sport to launch in August. But look at what happened. If the trend continues, there will be a brief let-up the first two weeks of June.

Movies: We'd rather read the book than see the movie, but we can't leave the book around the house.

Air Conditioning: We've been reading the instructions to no avail. Would rather feel it than read about it.

Air Travel: Fine if you're in no hurry to get to the airport, to get checked in, to get on the plane, to get the plane into the air, to land, to get off the plane, to pick up the luggage, to get a taxi, to get to your hotel, to get your luggage. Note: You can save a little time by losing your luggage.

A NEW PHOENIX

Legends about the phoenix color the mythology of many ancient civilizations. The phoenix was a bird that lived, according to the fables, many centuries. It was consumed in the flames of its own nest, then rose from the ashes to live again.

Our own country is about to witness a new phoenix in the spirit of Biloxi - Gulfport and the other areas hard hit by the raging storm that was hurricane Camille. This phoenix will rise, not from ashes, but from the rubble of crumbled cement and brick, and splintered remnants of tumbled wood. We have faith in this new phoenix, because the inhabitants of these stricken areas have faith in themselves and in the elusive wraith known as the American dream. It is the prime cause of our being the envy of the world. Tolalitarian nations despise us for it; our friends try, but somehow cannot match it.

Bob McHugh, associate editor of the Daily Herald of Biloxi-Gulfport, Mississippi, and Eugene Wilkes, senior editor, toured the ravaged areas of the twin cities two days after Camille's rampage. During the tour, the two newsmen spotted an American flag flying over the tangled mass of what once had been a building. They published a photograph of the banner on page one and, soon after, Highway 90 was dotted with a dozen or more flags.

The Daily Herald ordered 500 flag kits at $2.50 per set and resold the sets at one dollar, absorbing the difference in cost. The supply went quickly and the streets were soon lined with red, white and blue. Another 1,000 flags were ordered and they, too, sold out. At last count, the Daily Herald was awaiting a fourth shipment of flags, for a total of almost 4,000, many of them already spoken for. One Virginia newsman sent five dollars for one kit, requesting that the overpayment be turned over to hurricane relief.

Bob McHugh believes that the movement could lead to an annual Gulf Coast Flag Day on August 17th, as a memorial to the dead (128 at last count), and also serve as a means of remembering the spirit of those who suffered the storm's fury and rose, like a new phoenix, from the ruins.

In his thought-provoking book, "The America We Lost," Mario Pei wrote:

"For every benefit that the government holds out, the question should be asked: What am I required to give up in return?

"A careful formulation of an answer will usually bring to light that the price demanded is greater than the benefit offered, whether in taxes, or in restrictions of individual freedom and initiative, or in self-respect.

"We should love our government insofar as it is an expression of the will of the people. We should fear it, as Frankenstein should have feared his creation, for the monster it may turn into under given conditions."

LABOR'S SOUL

The annual Labor Party Conference is to be held in the Victorian seaside resort of Brighton from September 20 to October 3.

LONDON -- "Labor's Got Life and Soul," claim the party's political advertisements in England. But this propaganda has set everyone wondering exactly what kind of "soul" a group of disgruntled intellectuals, unhappy Socialist fundamentalists, calloused trade union leaders and squabbling government ministers can have. Perhaps the closest they'll come to it is the English version of soul food: Fish 'n Chips.

As the Labor Party meets for its 68th congress, not even Prime Minister Harold Wilson's Pollyannish pronouncements are likely to boost the sagging spirits of the rank and file. Labor's financial deficit is steadily mounting and membership has fallen to the lowest levels since 1951.

The source of greatest intra-party tension remains the extraordinary clash which occurred early this summer between the government and the trade unions. Wilson tried to make unofficial strikes punishable by law, but because the Trade Union Council is the paymaster of the party, the Prime Minister eventually had to back down.

Historically, the British Labor movement is the most successful non-Communist left-wing party in any large industrial country, notes the OBSERVER. This success has been due to its tie-up to the trade unions. These very links, however, are currently the source of the party's troubles. "Lip service is paid to the idea of worker's control and industrial democracy," says the Sunday TIMES, but Wilson has done little to further such basic union demands as equal pay for women.

The Labor Party National Executive Committee published a report of "Labor's Economic Strategy" which is to serve as a basis for discussion at the party conference. This report made about two dozen key recommendations, ranging from government inquiry into industrial mergers to an annual wealth tax of between 1 to 5 per cent to the levied on an individual's total personal wealth.

The ECONOMIST described this report's tone as "sad and dispirited" and dismissed Labor's economic perspective as "vacuous." The English press generally gave a thumbs down response to the task force's proposals.

The stronghold of the unions on the party arouses little sympathy from the young. Most left-wing intellectuals within the party are also alienated and so are some of its MPs. Labor MP Christopher Mayhew in a new book, PARTY GAMES, expressed his "unconquerable distaste" for the sham party battles fought between the Tories and the Laborites in Parliament when their records and policies on so many subjects are so similar.

Labor now must decide the strategy for its election campaign, which must likely will be held in the fall of 1970. With many Englishmen asking themselves whether Labor has a future, Wilson must use the Brighton Congress to resolve his party's identity crisis.

Despite these problems, Wilson does not go to Brighton empty-handed. The most recent Gallup poll shows that the Conservative party's margin over Labor is 9.5 per cent -- enough to produce a large Tory majority in the House but down sharply from a 23.5 per cent advantage as recently as July. Wilson no doubt will use these figures to argue that the political tide is turning back in favor of Labor.

Fat is a penalty if you are seeking business success. Although one out of every three executives is classed as overweight, only one out of every 10 in the top financial brackets is as much as 10 pounds above normal weight.

Airplanes as well as automobiles are now having trouble finding free wheeling space. It is estimated that in the next five years alone some 700 new airports will be needed in the United States and most major airports already in existence should double their capacity to handle traffic safely.

The more prosperous the nation becomes, the more it forks out for the losers in life's chase of the almighty dollar. A study by Tax Foundation, Inc., revealed that in 1968 federal, state and local governments spent nearly $18 billion on welfare programs for the needy, almost 2 1/2 times the amount spent in 1960.

Quotable notables: "If we do not permit the earth to produce beauty and joy, it will in the end not produce food either."—Joseph Wood Krutch.

The cup that kills: Each year some 200,000 Americans are hospitalized for treatment of delirium tremens resulting from excessive drinking; of the six persons who die each hour in traffic accidents, three of the deaths are attributed to misuse of alcohol.

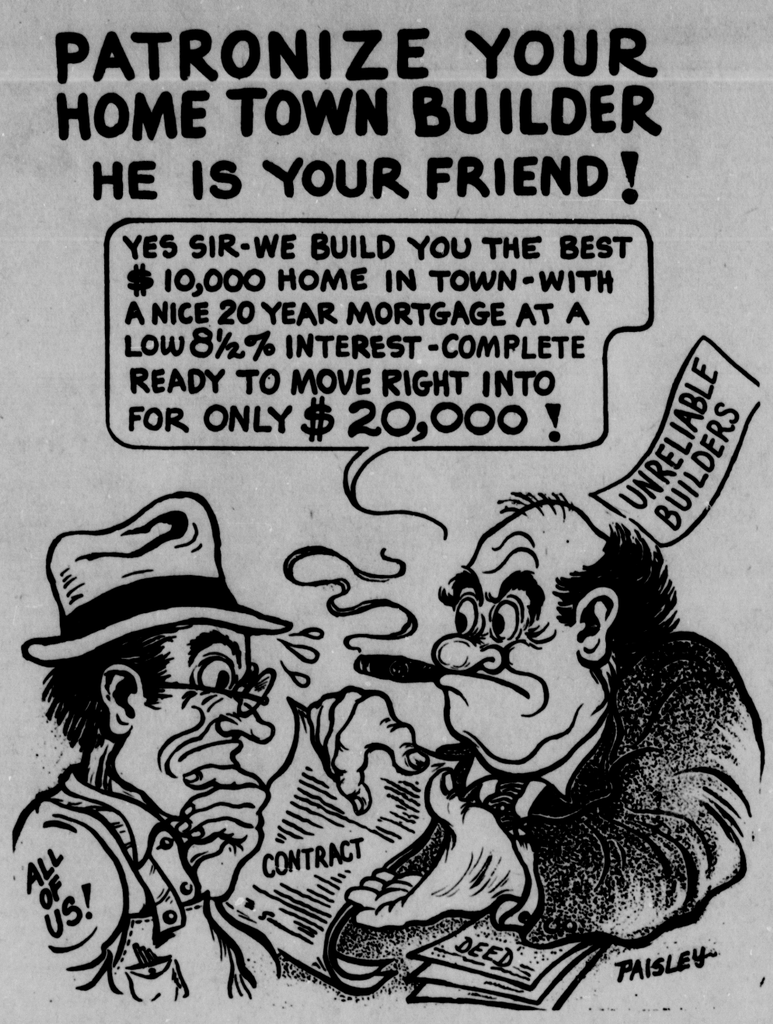
Are you one of those timid souls who habitually turn the other cheek when you are offended? Well, that might give you the rheumatiz. Dr. Harold Geist, a Berkeley, Calif., psychologist, says attacks of arthritis appear to be triggered by the inability of people with "weak egos" to express their anger openly.

Tip to students: If you wish to memorize something, the best way is to rehearse the material just before going to bed and immediately after arising in the morning — thus giving both your conscious and subconscious minds opportunity to fix it in your memory.

Here's another reason for considering going on a low-fat diet: Dr. Samuel Rosen, New York ear specialist, says studies show that the hearing of patients on low-cholesterol diets tends to improve, regardless of their age, and becomes less sharp again if they go off the diets.

Quick facts: The sting of Polynesia's poisonous stonefish can kill a person within two hours. There's enough salt in Utah's Great Salt Lake—5.7 billion tons — to satisfy America's needs for two centuries.

It was artist Vincent van Gogh who observed, "The best way to know God is to love many things."



The current fight waged against bank holding companies by Congressman Wright Patman, Chairman of the House Banking and Currency Committee, could lead to a Robinson-Patman Act type of legislation for the banking industry.

Disparity of interest rates showing up in the field surveys of the National Federation of Independent Business may carry some significance if indications registered by the 26,331 small business respondents during the first quarter of the year hold for the next two quarters.

A major question raised by the Federation's survey findings is why independent businessmen, for example, in California who borrowed money in the six months period between October 1, 1968 and March 31 of this year, were charged by banks an average interest rate of 7.7 percent, while in states such as West Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, Ohio, Michigan and Arkansas the average reported rate runs from 6.2 percent to less than 7 percent.

While the sample is not yet sufficiently broad to arrive at definitie findings, tentative conclusions reached by Federation researchers seemingly indicate quite strongly the smaller banks, largely independent or country banks, are serving customers at much lower rates of interest.

This leads to questions as to why this situation exists. In his fight against bank holding companies, Congressman Patman take the position that permitting big banking establishments to branch off into other fields will build tremendous monopolies. The major question raised by the data so far, which seems to support the Patman contention, is along this line: Are smaller independent banks able to operate with less overhead than the big banking giants, or in areas such as California where big multi-outlet banks dominate, is the differential in interest rates due to charging as much as the traffic will bear?

The Robinson-Patman Act was passed during an era when big national corporate chains were driving out independent competition in markets by purposely losing money on certain local operations, with the losses offset by profits from marketing areas where they were dominant.

In some areas, with California a prime example, the big banking combines almost follow the pattern of the oil companies in setting up a service station on every corner. There appears some question whether or not some of these branch units are self-supporting, or whether they are being subsidized by the banking corporation to hold down local competition.

While the classic reply to interest-rate differentials is that higher rates are due to a shortage of capital in an area, there appear to be discrepancies i n this position. For example, California, with not only the biggest banking institution in the world but also several others among the top ten, plus some of the nation's largest savings and loan institutions, obviously has more capital than West Virginia where the average interest rate paid by independent business is shown as 6.2 percent, a full percentage and a half below the California average.

There also appears to be a strong correlation between interest rates paid by independent business and the use of bank credit cards in an area. For example, in Kentucky where independent firms report only 3 percent of their volume done on credit cards, and an average interest rate on bank loans of 6.5 percent, in California where the average bank interest rate is 7.7 percent, independent businessmen report 18 percent of their volume done on credit cards.

Tentatively, it appears that banks who have heavily gone into consumer credit via the credit car route (which yields an interest rate of 1 1/2 percent per month on the unpaid balance) tends to raise their rates to independent business borrowers.

While there seems to be no question, according to Federation researchers, that bank credit cards are a boon to independent merchants in competition with corporate merchandisers who offer customers "revolving credit", there is a question as to whether bank credit cards tend to force up all interest rates in a manifestation of Gresham's Law.

This situation could lead to further governmental action in the creidt field, it is believed, if the present income surtax and the other measures prove to be no more effective in dampening inflation than they have up until the present.

During World War II, the use of Regulation 'W' which severely curtailed the use of consumer credit is claimed to have held down what could have been a serious inflationary spiral at that time.

However, curtailment of consumer credit would probably slow down production of consumer goods and increase unemployment. This presents a problem to a government seeking to have plenty of guns and butter while at the same time desiring full employment, expensive military operations, a big foreign aid program and also a huge domestic social welfare program.

When the Federal Reserve System was enacted in 1913, marking the fourth major change in the nation's banking set-up, its proponents did not conceive that the system would be employed as at present to manage money to achieve high levels of employment, or to monetize a high governmental debt.

No Night Clashes

"Dear Dad: Tell mother not to worry. I am not in a front-line position. The Administration is putting up a stiff resistance against the new fall offensive. They're still holding the President's office after recapturing it from the student occupation troops last spring. Everyone has shown an interest in our well-being and we are being protected. Air-raid wardens have given us maps locating the nearest fall-out shelters and fire-extinguishers, and the Medical Corps has issued first-aid kits, splints and antiseptics.

"However there is an outside possibility I may get caught unwillingly in the action to come. So you'd better send money for trench helmet, gas mask and escape hatch."

H.L. Hunt Says

INTEREST IS NOT INTERESTING

The interest on the national debt is more appalling than interesting. Since 1961, the federal government has spent $60 billion more than it has taken in, as a result the U.S. Treasury has had to borrow that much more money and pay interest on it. On top of that, inflation has brought on a considerable rise in the interest rates which must be paid for borrowed money.

The Treasury today has to pay more that twice as much in interest as it paid in 1961. In the current fiscal year interest payments on the public debt are expected to amount to $17.8 billion. That is a record, but it is a record which can hardly be expected to stand unless the longtime deficit spending trend is reversed. Already the cost to the average American family of interest on the national debt amounts to approximately $353 per year.

Since 1961 the times have been generally regarded as prosperous. Yet during these years the national debt has increased by $60 billion. The Chinese philosopher Confucius counseled many centuries ago: When prosperity comes, do not use all of it. But our federal government has used it all and a great deal more.

The national debt now stands at over $365 billion, or a billion dollars for every day in the year. You could say with a fair degree of accuracy that this means every child born in the United States this year starts life owing $1,825. That is his share of the present national debt. HLH

Washington - Merry Go - Round

By Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON SAYS: Well known cosmetics found contaminated by FDA inspectors; Manufacturers refuse cooperation in protectiong consumers; Mixon gets the message in protests against shoe imports.

WASHINGTON--Milady's vanity case, according to government inspectors, may contain contaminated cosmetics. Yet some manufacturers of lipsticks and lotions have refused to cooperate with the food and drug administration in protecting the public.

An analysis of 250 cosmetic products purchased in retail stores, for instance, turned up 61 samples of bacterial contamination. The tests showed that 12 of 43 hand lotions, 12 of 36 liquid eyeliners and 12 of 28 eyeshadow products were contaminated.

The danger to ladies who use makeup is so serious that FDA may ask Congress for new legislation--with teeth in it--to regulate cosmetics.

Food and drug officials have refused to identify the uncooperative manufacturers or to reveal the brand names of the products that have developed contamination. In answer to inqueries, officials merely call attention to a recent speech by commissioner Herbert Ley.

In the speech, he stated guardely: "Let me mention another recall we learned about recently, mentioning it is about all I can do. During a routine inspection of a large West Coast cosmetic manufacturer, we discovered that the firm had recalled a hair conditioner because of mold contamination.

"How many tubes and jars were recalled?" asked Dr. Ley. "The firm refused to answer. Lot numbers? The firm refused to give them. Area of distribution? Again, no answer."

NAMING NAMES

From the FDA's confidential files, however, this column can report that the uncooperative company was Max Factor, which does a multi-million dollar business around the world. Its products are international favorites, used by movie stars and glamor girls.

The contaminated product that had to be withdrawn was Max Factor's "Tried and True," A protein hair conditioner, which turned out to be more tried than true.

Elizabeth Arden was also obliged to recall 2,280 pints of contamined "June Geranium" hand lotion. and Dell labs halted the sale of "Lash-Brite" liquid eyeliner after an entire lot of 57,300 bottles was found to be contaminated.

Not even baby lotions are always safe. Charles Pfizer's leeming-Pacquin division stopped distributing desitin topical baby lotion after two lots turned up with gram negative bacteria.

For children, Dunham products put out "Li'l Shaver" toy razor kits, which contained four-ounce bottles of contaminated "play after shave" lotion. Of 70 gross manufactured since January, 30 gross remain on the market.

Contamination has been discovered, too, in men's toilet articles. Pearson Pharmacal Company, for example, had to recall 63,965 plastic bottles of "Sir Kostot after shave kondition." All but 2,237 bottles have been returned.

Many other contaminated cosmetics have also been discovered--a record, in Dr. Ley's words, that does not "Engender complacency."

Note: Commissioner ley pointed out in his cautious speech that "many cosmetic products provide a hospitable environment for the growth of bacteria, since they contain water and various organic ingredients."

IF SHOE FITS

A congressional delegation, led by Maine's pert, prim sin. Margaret Chase Smith, called upon President Nixon the other day to plead the plight of the Nation's shoemakers.

The President watched their approach with a bemused expression.

"Everyone has on nice shoes," he observed. "I see a few brown ones."

He listened intently as a spokesman for the shoe industry, Robert Lockridge, president of Craddock Terry shoe company, described how shoe imports have shot up from 8 per cent to 28 per cent and shoe exports have dropped from five million to three million pairs since 1960.

The President nodded gravely.

"Textiles are in serious condition potentially," he said. "Shoes are in serious condition now."

He also noted that shoemaking was a "job-creating industry."

"There are 140 separate operations in making shoes," chimed in Lockridge.

Rep. James Burke, the darkly handsome Massachusetts democrat, raised the political implications.

"Mr. President, " he said. "There are shoe businesses in 253 congressional districts. Of the 25 members of the house ways and means committee, 22 have shoe companies in their districts."

UNDER THE DOME

The late Sen. Everett Dirksen's favorite errand boy, Nebraska Sen. Roman Hruska, desperately tired to keep Dirksen's seat in the family. Hruska telephoned Illinois Gov. Richard Ogilvie and begged him to appoint Dirksen's widow, Louella, to the vacancy. Later, Hruska led the abortive campaign to elect Dirksen's son-in-law, Tennessee Sen. Howard Baker, Jr., as senate republican leader....The real reason Baker sought the leadership, say senate wags, was so he could continue using Dirksen's government limousine. All the while Dirksen was the leader, the Bakers used the limousine more often than did the Dirksens...Pennsylvania Sen. Hugh Scott celebrated his election as Dirksen's successor by throwing a small, private champagne party. Illinois Sen. Charles Percy barged into the party, loudly proclaiming: "Now that I've given my speech on hunger, I'm whetting my lips for champagne."...At the party, Michigan Sen. Robert Griffin said he hoped that Scott would soon rise form minority to majority leader. "It doesn't matter whether I'm Majority or minority leader," retorted Scott. "The salary is the same."

CRACKING LA COSA NOSTRA:

Washington, D.C.: — Intelligence sources by tradition and profession are as tight-lipped as an uncaught clam. Especially when they are admonished by the highest Justice Dept. sources -- as they have been in the past few days -- not to talk to the "press." So, to keep the faith, the following must be reported as "coincidence."

Federal crime - fighting agencies have learned that in one Midwestern city the crime combine's "borgatas" (syndicates) control or have infiltrated 89 businesses worth $800 million.

At the same time it is learned that the Justice Dept.'s Criminal Division now is set to launch a special anticrime strike force in Cleveland early in November. This will be followed by another special coordinated team in St. Louis early next year. Then a force in Los Angeles in midyear. Finally a new team will begin operating in New Orleans by next year's end.

"Cleveland's rotten," says one sophisticated federal Mafia specialist. "It's all there, terrorizing of unions, infiltrating of legitimate business, looting of pension funds, juke box operation and the usual gambling, narcotics, high finance reaching from Cleveland east to Switzerland and west to Los Angeles via the southwest. We pick Cleveland because we work on a simple priority: where is the organized crime problem most intense and where is the least being done about it."

Coincidentally, Cleveland is one city which has intrigued President Nixon since Dec. 19, 1958, when as vice president he handled some investigative documents involving the Teamsters.

When the four new special anticrime strike forces are secretly operative there will be coordinated probes in 13 cities. And they'll be swinging -- as is the Justice Dept. these days under Atty. Gen. John Mitchell. His Ass't. "A. G." Will R. Wilson, head of the Criminal Division is almost constantly on the road now -- riding the circuit to oversee the current Mafia investigations. No more absentee crusades.

Last week, Mr. Wilson was in Chicago to which he flew from a sealed door anti- Cosa Nostra conference in New York. This latter gathering was called by the experimental special Anti-Crime Strike Froce Council. This is the first -- and the only -- operation of its kind. When it met last, there were 17 members -- ranging from local district attorneys to J. Edgar Hoover and Will Wilson (actually the White House's own gadfly). When the Council met secretly on the 41st floor of the big Federal Building in Manhattan there were 19 crack crime fighters. The two new starters were the Superintendent of New York State Police and the Chief of the Federal Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs.

Their technique is fascinating and it may work if the jealousies between the state, local and country officials can be smothered. If this integrated federal - state- county and municipal force can crack the five Cosa Nostra borgatas in New York-- the biggest of which is Carlo Gambino's combine covering the waterfront and hundreds of millions of dollars worth of real estate -- then strike forces will be turned into expanded councils across the land.

For a day and a half, beginning on the morning of Sept. 23, the New York Joint Strike Force Council heard special committee reports. They read like movie scripts -- millions of dollars being hijacked; huge sums being made from use of forged and stolen credit cards; Mafia muscle still moving in on frightened local union or setting up fake locals; cracking of suburban gambling rings which mulct the housewives' purses (one ring averaged some $70 million a year).

One one set of experts was missing -- the labor specialists.

The Congress has refused to appropriate a meagre $2 million for field men to work with the strike forces and the council.

Every other section and division has gotten its appropriation. The Post Office, for example, has been given money for an additional 150 postal inspectors. But not the Labor Dept.'s Bureau of Labor-Management Reports.

Why? Who's been pressuring the Congressional appropriations committees? Why hasn't the Senate Labor Committee subcommittee on appropriations put back into the bill the $2 million denied the Labor Dept. by the House committee? This gives the mob a field day in an area as vital as any other.

Why doesn't some one answer? If there's going to be a crusade, let there be a crusade.

Ann Landers

Husband Skips Around, And Forgot To Return?

Dear Ann Landers: This might be the strangest letter you've ever received. I can't sign it because I may be in trouble with the law.

My husband drank a lot and ran around with women. I don't believe in divorce and we had children who had to be considered. Three years ago my husband disappeared. He had done this before and always turned up in another town. The excuse was the same. He got drunk and didn't know where he was or what he was doing. After he sobered up it took him another few days to work up the courage to come home and face me. I thought this was another one of those episodes. But after two weeks I got scared and called the police.

The next day they found my husband's wallet on the bank of a river. They dredged the river but couldn't find the body. I called the minister the following week and we had a dignified memorial service. The insurance company sent a check and I moved to a better apartment. These last three years have been very peaceful and happy ones for me and the children.

Yesterday I was looking at a baseball game on TV and I could swear I saw my husband in the crowd at Fenway Park in Boston. He was with a nice looking woman and they were laughing and drinking pop.

Should I notify the police? What about the insurance money? Most of it has been spent. Am I in trouble? Please advise me.--Shaken

Dear Shaken: Call the police and tell them. There's a good chance you saw a man who resembled your husband. The insurance company should be notified, too.

You have done nothing wrong, so relax. If there was an error, it was not yours

Dear Ann Landers: My boyfriend is leaving for the service in a few weeks. He gave me his high school ring and told me we should consider ourselves engaged. I asked what that meant and he said, "It means you will wait for me and not go with anyone else when I am gone."

My parents are very much against the whole thing. They say I should not be tied down---that I am too young to make a decision as big as this. I am 17, Ann, and very mature for my age.

When I told my boyfriend what my parents said, he got mad and yelled, "The least they can do for a guy going to Vietnam is to keep his morale up by letting him know he has something to come home for."

Now it's gotten to be a real hassle between my parents and my boyfriend. I don't know what to do. Please guide me.---Kenton, Ohio

Dear Ken: Your folks have given you good advice. I hope you take it. If it's the real thing, it will survive the separation. A boy who tries to hang onto a girl by appealing to her sense of patriotism exhibits a tremendous lack of confidence. Moreover he is not being fair to her.

Confidential to To Be Or Not To Be---That Is The Question: Take the advice of Justice Louis D. Brandeis, one of the greatest jurists of all time. He said, "The best way to deal with the irresistible is to resist it."

When romantic glances turn to warm embraces is it love or chemistry? Send for the booklet "Love Or Sex And How To Tell The Difference," by Ann Landers. Enclose a long, stamped, self-addressed, envelope and 35 cents in coin with your request.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

FOR BETTER HEALTH, MUCH MORE VITAMIN C

Average daily intake of vitamin C, even in the U. S. and other affluent countries, is nowhere nearly enough, according to the University of California chemistry professor.

Ascorbic acid -- contained in vitamin C -- promotes vigor and increased protection against infectious disease. A 10-fold increase in daily intake, says Linus Pauling, PhD, could mean a 10 per cent improvement in mental and physical well-being.

Her Music Is Out of This World

By TOM CULLEN
NEA European Correspondent

LONDON—(N E A)—"I'm still afraid to talk to Beethoven, but Liszt is different—I feel I can talk freely with him."

Mrs. Rosemary Brown, a widow in her 40s, talks about the great composers as though they are next-door neighbors who are in the habit of dropping in for tea. And such very nearly is the case.

Mrs. Brown claims that Beethoven and Liszt have been appearing to her regularly for the past five years and have been dictating new compositions, which she takes down on the piano. Brahms, Bach, Schumann, Debussy and Rachmaninoff have been appearing to her as well.

Altogether, Mrs. Brown, a pleasant woman with chestnut hair, has noted down quite a volume of ghost compositions, ranging from Rachmaninoff piano-duets to Chopin fantasy-impromptus, none of which has ever been heard before. And there is much more music to come, she says.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Brown's revelations have created something of a furor here in Britain. She has been the subject of three television documentaries and a long-playing record of some of the compositions she has rescued from the spirit world is about to be issued.

What makes Rosemary Brown's story so remarkable is that she has no special talent as a musician and has had almost no musical training. She has not even heard very much classical music.

In fact, she and her late husband, who was ill during most of their married life, were so poor that they could not even afford a radio or a record-player, let alone go to concerts. When her husband died in 1961, Mrs. Brown had to sling hash in a school cafeteria in order to support her two children.

Today she lives in a decaying flat in southwest London. The ivory keys on the upright piano which belonged to her grandmother are yellow, like discolored teeth. On top of the piano are small plaster busts of her idols—Wagner, Schubert, and Liszt.

She says she does not need to go into a trance in order to receive music from the dead. It can come to her while she is out shopping. Recently she was being interviewed by the BBC when Liszt dropped in and dictated 20 bars of music right in the midst of the recording session.

By now the great composers have become so familiar to Mrs. Brown that she sometimes scolds them when they dictate too fast, or the music is unclear. Recently she became quite exasperated with Beethoven. "Beethoven was dictating to me and everything was going quite smoothly when suddenly he stopped," she explains. "They've got to learn how to sustain concentration," she says with just a trace of annoyance in her voice.

From earliest childhood Mrs. Brown appears to have been endowed with extra-sensory perception. As a girl of 7, she heard heavenly music in her mind, and "an elderly man with long flowing white hair" whom she now identifies as Liszt appeared to her and told her that he would one day dictate beautiful music to her.

It took a couple of broken ribs to make Liszt's prophecy come true. Mrs. Brown slipped and broke her ribs in March, 1964, while working in the school cafeteria. "I couldn't do any housework because of my accident, so my mind turned to the piano, which I hadn't touched for 12 years. My playing was so rusty that it was like starting all over again," she recalls. It was then that Liszt appeared to her consciousness and dictated 12 relatively simple pieces of music. Liszt, in turn, introduced Chopin, and soon Mrs. Brown had about a dozen composers all clamoring to break through the sound barrier and to have their works heard by the waiting world.

What does her 12-year-old son think of the music that is coming from the spirit world? Mrs. Brown shrugs. "He prefers the Beatles."

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

"SINUS TROUBLE" BEST DIAGNOSED BY PHYSICIAN

About 90 per cent of the time the person who complains of "sinus trouble" is really suffering from a combination of stuffed nose and tension headache, an Iowa physician reports. Reaction to emotional stress may also account for some nose trouble. "Depressed patients are especially prone to excessive nasal and eye discharges," another physician notes.

To help avoid a true sinus infection, physicians advise treating a stuffy nose. A decongestant nasal spray such as Neo-Synephrine or NTZ helps. So do cold-mist or steam vapor. Other medically approved suggestions: Stop smoking. Make sure home and office are adequately humidified. If you swim, especially in chlorinated water, be sure to exhale through the nose and inhale through the mouth. Never blow your nose hard. Leave both nostrils open when you blow your nose.

Big 8 Teams Display Power

Big eight football teams put on their biggest display of power in history Saturday, chalking up a record seven victories and lending credence to the contention f some that the conference may now be America's strongest.

"It was a great day for the Big Eight, particularly in the light of the high caliber of nonconference compeition," Commissioner Wayne Duke said. "I hope there will be many more like it."

Conference teams now stand 11-5 this season against outside foes, but some of the biggest prestige battles are yet to come.

Penn State invades Manhattan, Kan., Saturday. Should the Kansas State Wildcats, whose claws are sharper than ever, upset the second-ranked Nittany Lions the fans may enshrine Coach Vince Gibson.

Missouri goes to Michigan Saturday for another prestige battle, while the last of the big ones will be Oct. 11 at Dallas when Oklahoma challenges powerful Texas.

Only Colorado stumbled last Saturday. The Buffaloes bowed to Penn State, 28-3, although they had one more first down and only five fewer yards than the Lions. Four pass interceptions and a long kickoff return spoiled the Buffs' bid.

Elsewhere, Oklahoma mauled Pittsburgh, 37-8; Missouri thrashed Illinois, 37-6; Kansas State belted Arizona, 42-27; Oklahoma State upset Houston, 24-18, and Nebraska, Kansas and Iowa State all recorded shutouts.

The Cornhuskers blanked Texas A&M, 14-0, the Jayhawks trimmed Syracuse, 13-0, and the Cyclones downed Brigham Young, 10-0.

Besides K-State-Penn State and Missouri-Michigan, Saturday's schedule has Nebraska at Minnesota, Iowa State at Illinois, Indiana at Colorado, Kansas at New Mexico and Texas Tech at Oklahoma State.

Pittsburgh Coach Carl DePasqua called Oklahoma's sophomore quarterback, Jack Mildren, "the most exceptional sophomore I've ever seen since I've been coaching." He had a reason. Mildren ran for 135 yards, passed for 71 more and scored twice to lead Oklahoma's rout of the Panthers. Steve Owens, although hurting with a pulled muscle, gained 104 yards, scored three times and now has 40 touchdowns in his career.

Missouri's Joe Moore had an Owens-type day, carrying the ball 22 times for 191 yards in the Tigers' romp past Illinois.

Mike Montgomery broke a 64-yard touchdown run to launch K-State's victory and later scored on a 16-yard pass from Lynn Dickey.

Oklahoma State, capitalizing on Houston errors, built a 24-0 lead and stood off a Cougar rally. Bob Cutburth was the Cowboy hero, throwing two touchdown passes and scoring once himself.

Sophomores Van Brownson and Jerry Tagge hit 17 of 24 passes for 209 yards in Nebraska's win.

Kansas scored early on Willie Amison's 16-yard bolt, then had to get a 56-yard pass interception return by jjohn Mears to subdue Syracuse.

Tony Washington's 51-yard punt return was the big play for Iowa State.

"This was a big game for us," Missouri Coach Dan Devine said. "Illinois is just getting to be a big game. We can't stand any nore of them. We've got enough big games now."

jthe Tigers left no doubt from start to finish who was superior. Moore bolted 58 yards the first time Missouri had the ball for a touchdown and there was no letup.

Terry McMillan passed 42 yards to Mel Gray and jjerry Boyd raced 47 yards with a pass interception for the other big Tiger plays before 48,740 fans in Busch Stadium at St. Louis.

Moore came within 27 yards of the Missouri single-game rushing record, held by Harry Ice who got 218 against Kansas in 1941.

Kansas fluffed some early scoring opportunities, then lost the game's momentum and had to fight off Syracuse's comeback bids in the second half. Mears put it away with 4:49 to go on his interception run of a pass deflected by EKMERY Hicks.

"I'm just very happy we won," Coach Pepper Rodgers said. "I'd have been very happy with 6-0. Our defense got in more good licks in this game than any since I've been at Kansas."

Besides Montgomery's flashy running, Dickey hit Charlie Collins on a 53-yard pass to set up a crucial K-State touchdown late in the first half for a 28-13 lead. The Wildcat defense held Arizona to minus 13 yards rushing.

Hart Leads Comeback

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Almost all the breaks went against the Chicago Bears, including the one on jjim Hart's index finger.

Hart, consigned to the bench since the second game of the exhibition season because of the broken finger on his throwing hand, marked is regular season debut by driving the Cardinals 71 yards to a fourth quarter touchdown and a 20-17 victory over the Bears Sunday.

The drive, capped by Willis Crenshaw's two - yard plunge, wiped out Bears quarterback Jack Concannon's come-frombehind effort following two costly Chicago mistakes.

"Some of the plays were sent in from the bench," Hart said about the final drive," but we all had the same thinking. We've been around the coaches long enough to know what they're thinking.

"I don't know as I was that fired up, but the team was. We knew we had to get it there, because if we'd stalled it would have been all over."

At times it looked all over for each team. But something always happened to chance the way things looked. Even after the Cardinals took the three-point lead, jchicago cane back to try a field goal that would have tied the game. But Mac Percival's last-second try was wide by a couple of yards.

Concannon had fired touchdown passes to Dick Gordon in the second and third periods to overcome a 13-point deficit. Percival had added a field goal in the 10point third period to make it 17-13.

It was Chicago mistakes, though, that had given the Cardinals the quick lead. The first Cardinal touchdown came on a 15-yard Charley Johnson to John Gilliam pass after Chuck Walker retrieved a Gale Skayers fumble.

The second was a real weirdy. The Bears had he ball at the St. Louis 46 yard line when suddenly Concannon turned from center Mike Pyle and tried to signal time out. Pyle snapped the ball with his usual zest and it soared about 30 feet into the air. Linebacker Larry Stallings grabbed it on the run and scored a 62-yard touchdown to give he Cardinals the temporary lead.

"Concann n tried to call time because there was a mixup," Stallings said from his view of the proceedings. "Sayers raised up and said, 'Wait, there's a mistake." Concannon stepped back to say time and as he said it, the center snapped the ball.

"It happened to Johnny Unitas agains us a few years ago and Joe Fortunato picked it off," Pyle recalled. "I think it was on the 10 yard line and he went in to score."

SEMO Indians Remain Unbeaten

By DAN SPEARS
STAFF WRITER
CAPE GIRARDEAU – Defeating Delta State College of Cleveland, Mississippi, only 7-6, in the curtain raiser a week ago possibly made the Southeast Missouri State Indians stop and wonder where the future lay in the upcoming season. Scoring their second play from scrimmage, the College tribe rebounded gracefully and downed the visiting Jacksonville, Ala., State Universities Gamecocks here Saturday night 19-13, for their second victory.

Holding the MIAA conference title for the past two seasons, Coach Tom Thrower commented, "The only possible reason they could not expect to do well this year is because they play a real tough schedule." SeMo did not play Jacksonville last season, but the two teams have met five times during the 60's with the Indians winning three.

After last weeks game with Delta State, Thrower was pretty optimistic about his defense. "Anytime you hold Delta to two field goals, you've got to be doing something right." Only Saturday night the floor liked to have given in with him late in the second half, as he held a 13-0 halftime edge which looked to be pretty insured at the time.

Using the first minute of play trying to move the ball upfield against the tribe's defensive wall, the Gamecocks were pressured into punting. Failing to gain yardage on their first play through the line, Indian quarterback, Greg Schroeder, came out of the huddle and heaved a 55 yard touchdown pass to college transfer running back, Al Homes. Bruce Nall came in and did the kicking duties to boost Cape into an early 7-0 lead. Taking off from there, the Indians defense picked up where they left off last week holding Jacksonville to relatively little yardage on the ground. After a series of second quarter miscues and an attempted fieldgoal by the host, Schroeder and Sophomore, Art Miller, were successful in putting six more points on the board as Miller skirted in for a 2 yards TD. Nall's try for the PAT was off to the right and the Indians went in at the intermission hosting a 13-0 lead.

The Indians kicked off at the half and the ball was taken by the gamecocks, Bubba Long and returned to his 20 yard line before fumbling and letting the Cape defense take possession. Holmes broke out of the SEMo ranks for the first play going eight yards before getting dropped. Miller broke around end with 13:58 remaining in the quarter for his second score of the evening. The try for the conversion by Nall was blocked by Jacksonville's, Bruce Nichols.

Leading 19-0, the SeMo let up on the never ending surge that the Gamecocks were about to unleash. Jim Weaver broke loose off tackle and sprinted 55 yards for the visitors first score with 3:51 remaining in the third period. Driving against the tiring defense of the Indians throughout the final quarter, senior signal cailer Doc Lett was able to move his team down the field once again play by play and push Long over for a 2 yard plunge and the Jacksonville's final score of the night. With 19 seconds left to play the Cocks make their last bid for the game as tribesman, Leslie Young intercepted a Lett pass on their own 40 yard line and let the clock run out, winning 19-13.

Higher Taxes Would Hurt Home Buyers

JEFFERSON CITY-The higher tax rate proposed for savings and loan associations would hurt home buyers and aggrevate the nation's growing housing crisis, according to Wendell L. Evans, Jr., executive vice-president of the Missouri Savings and Loan League.

"Inflation is driving home prices out of reach, there's a housing shortage and mortgage money for single-family dwellings is drying up," Evans said.

"An increase in our taxes would strike a further blow at home ownership at a time when it needs all the help it can get."

The House of Representatives has voted to cut the bad devt allowance of savings associations in half over a ten-year period. In effect, this would double the federal tax rate for these institutions.

Hearings on the measure, a section of an omnibus tax reform bill, are now being held by the Senate Finance Committee.

Evans pointed out that savings associations are the nation's main source of single-family home financing, especially in the used home market.

"The current inflation has lured most other lenders from the home financing field," he went on.

"An increase in our taxes would further reduce the dwindling supply of mortgage money available for home purchases."

Cutting the bad devt allowance for associations, Evans continued, would also erode their loss reserve position and make them more vulnerable to economic turndowns. To protect their savers, he said associations might then have to begin seeking short-term investments not tied to home ownership.

"Another could be the massive direct intervention of the federal government into direct home lending, hardly a way to reduce the general tax burden."

Evans noted that as a result of a war-bred inflation and spiralling interest rates, the growth of savings associations has slowed appreciably in recent years. Their ability to compete for savings has been blunted by the long-term nature of their loans, which include many outstanding mortgages made when interest rates were far below the current market.

"Ultimately, if our institutions are not allowed to thrive, it is the home buyer who must pay," Evans concluded.

"Congress has set an ambitious national housing goal of 2,600,000 new units annually. At a time when inadequate housing is in the offing, it doesn't make sense to further curb home ownership through higher federal taxation."

Tally Clerk Won't Say If Quit or Fired

WARRENSBURG, Mo. (AP)— Wally Alexander, who served as tally clerk for the Missouri House in Jefferson City until a new clerk appeared Thursday, won't say if he resigned or was fired.

"I have nothing to say," he said.

Alexander had the job of pushing the button and turning the key that recorded the House vote on the state income tax increase bill which passed by the bare vote needed, 82 to 76.

Two electric tally boards on the walls of the House showed 79 for the bill and 77 against, three short of the required majority.

Clayton Attorney Heads State Bar

KANSAS CITY — A Clayton attorney, Edgar G. Boedeker Wednesday was elected president of The Missouri Bar at the organization's 25th annual meeting. He succeeds Martin J. Purcell of Kansas City.

A native of St. Louis, Boedeker is a graduate of the St. Louis University school of law. He was admitted to the bar in 1938 and during World War II served on the staff of the judge advocate general. From 1947 to 1950 he was a member of the Missouri house of representatives. He is a past president of the St. Louis County Bar association and is city attorney of Clayton.

Boedeker was first elected to the board of governors in 1962. In 1967 he was elected vice president of the organization and in 1968 was named president- elect. He took office at the conclusion of the annual meeting Friday.

A Cape Girardeau attorney, Jack L. Oliver, was named president- elect. Oliver's father and law partner, Allan Laws Oliver, served as president of Tue Missouri Bar Association, the forerunner of the present organization, in 1943-44. The president- elect, who has been a member of the board of governors since 1964, last year served as vice president.

Hearnes Praises Legislators for Passing Tax Bill

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes praised the courage of legislators who passed his income tax increase bill Thursday.

"I personally appreciate what I believe to be the very honest and courageous action on the part of the representatives and senators who were willing to face up to the problems facing the state of Missouri," he told a news conference.

Even with the estimated $102.6 million in new revenue provided, he said the 1970-71 budget would be very tight. The governor has said $110 million would be needed to run the state government for that fiscal year starting next July 1.

Robinson Says State May Tap Bank Funds Heavily

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Missouri Treasurer William E. Robinson was quoted Thursday as saying the state may withdraw about $138 million from state banks to meet an impending financial crisis.

He was quoted as not speaking out earlier because the Legislature was considering a bill to increase income taxes. The bill passed Thursday.

Television Station WDAF said Robinson told newsmen the withdrawals—to meet state expenses—would start Nov. 1 and would all be used up by Dec. 1.

Robinson also was quoted as saying the state still would face money problems if and when the income taxes are raised because "it is using this year's revenues to pay last year's bills."

But John C. Vaughn, comptroller and budget director, said withdrawals of state funds to meet expenditures is not unusual.

"We are in good shape this fiscal year," Vaughn said. "The record shows as of Aug. 31 Missouri had $56.8 million in general revenue. That is aside from $93 million set aside for allotment to state aid to schools in September. Next June 30, we will have a surplus of $21 million.

Unidentified Woman To State Hospital

MORLEY — A woman found wandering in a field here Sunday, in apparent daze, has been placed in Farmington State Hospital No. 4 until she can be identified.

Scott County Sheriff's deputies took the woman to the state mental hospital Wednesday after trying with no success to learn her name and background.

Deputies said she appeared to be about 23-24 years old, and when fould was wearing clean clothing though a bit wrinkled. Officers said they did not find any signs of a struggle from her appearance. One deputy said she looked like a young woman who had been out for a long walk.

The woman was being held in protective custody in Benton before being placed in the state hospital. Authorities in Benton said she could not remember who she is or where she was from.

Tuesday the woman gave officers the name of a woman who had been discharged from the Farmington hospital. The mother of the former patient was contacted and after viewing the woman said it was not her daughter.

Officers said before being taken to the Farmington hospital the woman appeared fairly coherent, but could answer questions only with a "I don't know, or I can't remember."

The woman is described as 5 feet tall, 90 pounds, light, short, brown hair, hazel eyes. She was wearing a plaid blouse, black slacks, black raincoat and black tennis shoes.

Buffalo Herd Draws Crowds To Kentucky

GOLDEN POND, Ky. - Land Between the Lakes officials estimated that more than 3,000 people visited the buffalo range Sunday, the Tennessee Valley Authority announced today. A Land Between the Lakes patrolman counted 177 cars parked alongside the range in a one- hour check Sunday afternoon.

The herd of 20 buffalo, which were shipped here from Theodore Roosevelt National Memorial Park near Medora, N.D. arrived at their home near the former site of Model, Tennessee, Sept. 19.

One of the buffalo, a yearling bull, was injured and died shortly after arriving. The remaining 19 animals, ranging from one to two years of age, are in excellent health and appear to like the surroundings of their new range.

The buffalo, once native to Tennessee and Kentucky, are located alongside The Trace (Tennessee 49- Kentucky 453), the major north- southhighway through Land Between the Lakes. The big, 100- acre pasture can easily be expanded to accommodate any increase in he size of the herd.

Visitors who would like to see the buffalo should plan to arrive in the morning or later afternoon. The buffalo prefer the cool shade of the forested portion of the pasture during midday. To reach the buffalo range from Tennessee, turn north off U.S. 79 onto Tennessee 49 and drive approximately 12 miles; from Kentucky turn south off U.S. 68 onto Kentucky 453, and it's approximately 14 miles to the range. Visitors entering Land Between the Lakes from across the Scott Fitzhugh Bridge on U.S. 79 can also reach the range by turning left onto the Fort Henry- Blue Spring Road which leads to The Trace.

Piney Campground, just a few miles south of the buffalo range along the Kentucky Lake shoreline, will remain open throughout the year. All of the tent and trailer sites in Piney have electrical outlets, and heated central service buildings are available.

Ozark Air Lines Adds Magazine

ST. LOUIS — Ozark Air Lines introduced a new in-flight magazine aboard all aircraft this month. The go-getter, as it is named, will be printed quarterly for seat pocket distribution, and is edited for the pleasure of Ozark passengers.

As noted in the first issue in an introductory letter from Thomas L. Grace, Ozark president, each magazine will explore the cities Ozark serves, "delving into their histories, pointing out unusual places to visit while you're there, and presenting some interesting and off- beat sidelights."

In addition, each issue will carry other articles of a miscellaneous nature that it is felt will be interesting to the traveling public. A regular Welcome Aboard, column will include information about Ozark's service, and hints to the passenger for his best use of Ozark's services.

Advertising will be carried each quarter, and the total number of pages will be 30 or more. Press run on the inaugural issue was 25,000. The next Go-Getter Magazine will be distributed starting in November.

Senators Ask Flow Of Shoes Be Curbed

WASHINGTON - Missouri's U. S. Senators Stuart Symington (D) and Thomas F. Eagleton (D) are among 73 Senators who have appealed to President Nixon for Administration action in curbing the flow of foreign made shoes into the United States.

The list was released here recently by Senator Margaret Chase Smith (R-Maine), during a Senate floor speech.

In their petition to the president, the 73 senators appealed for U. S. negotiations to begin with principal foreign supplying nations. Aim of the talks would be to establish voluntary shoe import limitations. Senator Smith said the limitations are needed so that "both now and in the future the shoe manufacturing industry of the United States may continue as a healthy and viable segment of our economy."

The Senators represent 43 out of the 50 states.

Approximately 92 shoe plants in Missouri produced 54.9 million pairs of shoes last year valued at over $327 million, Senators Symington and Eagleton pointed out.

Tony Heckemeyer Reports

This information appears in the paper to answer many questions I know are in everyone's minds because of my many discussions with various interested parties in the last few weeks. The Legislature has just passed a bill increasing the amount of income tax the state of Missouri will collect.

I'm sure many of you do not realize the County of Scott receives more money back from the state in varied assistance programs than it puts in. So as the total amount collected is increased, the amount will receive in this County will proportionately increase with it.

Secondly the Schools must be and will be financed, and if the state does not increase with income tax or sales tax, their share of the cost of education up to at least 50 percent. The property owner will pay the bulk of the increase that will be required in the next few years to maintain our schools. Therefore, any property owners must realize this tax bill will protect property owners interested in our County, and I might add here that they must be protected since we are at a very critical point. Taxation is reaching a level which will actually discourage the individuals from owning property. I repeat the money must come from the state and from the property owner to maintain our schools in this state.

Thirdly, you will find included with this report a breakdown of the tax schedule included in the new bill. If you will read this carefully, I am sure you will see this tax bill in an entirely new light.

You will note that a man and his wife who have three dependents will actually pay less than they did last year, until they make $10,000 in taxable income, at which time they will get an increase of $6.25 in their taxes. Be carefully reading the schedule enclosed you will see that for our County, far more individual taxes will be lowered than will be raised. In fact, those least able to pay will find considerable benefits from this tax bill. I would like to add that this schedule I have enclosed is high because of an amendment placed on the bill in the last few hours of Legilation, which will allow a person who wishes not to use the 10 percent standard deduction to itemize his deductions and deduct off his Social Security or Railroad pension, this will further reduce the income from the bill five million dollars.

If you have further questions concerning this tax bill, I am completely at your disposal to explain them. I would greatly appreciate a chance to speak to your group or organization or to you individually on the telephone.

So much wrong information has been put out that is so ridiculous, I feel you need to know the true facts.

The mandrake plant is supposed to shriek when pulled out of the ground, according to folklore.

Seven Held In Fire Probe

CARUTHERSVILLE, MO. - Seven youths have been arrested in connection with a number of fires which raged through vacant homes in a largely Negro section of Caruthersville Monday night.

Mayor B. F. Rogers said charges would be filed against the youths, all Negroes, who range in age from 14 to 18. The boys were taken into custody after another fire Tuesday night.

The mayor said the fires appeared to be vandalism and had no evident racial connections. He indicated there may be more arrests.

After the fires started, more than 20 highway patrolmen were assigned to duty in Caruthersville.

Ryan Bids Low on School

DONIPHAN - Members of the Doniphan R-1 School District Board of Education, last night accepted the low bid of the Ryan Construction Company, Sikeston, for construction of the first of two units of their new high school building.

The Ryan firm's bid of $317,023 was the apparent low bid with five area contractors bidding on the structure. Others bidding included the Cox Lumber Company, Piggott, Ark.; Smith & Livingston Construction Company, Poplar Bluff; Brown Construction Company, Dexter, and the J. W. Githens Construction Company, Poplar Bluff.

Bids were opened in the presence of the board of education and school administrators with Paul E. Shawan representing the Poplar Bluff architectural firm of Drew & Jablonsky. Shawan said all five bids were within the school district budget for the project.

This is the first of two projects under which the complete high school comples will be built.

The unit will include classrooms, library, kitchen and cafeteria, an administrative suite and all necessary utilities. It was noted the bid price represents a cost of approximately $12 per square foot.

Plans call for a one-story, fire-resistant structure of steel and masonry construction. Extras include carpeting in the library and administrative areas. A hot water heating system is planned with provisions for future air conditioning.

The building will be constructed on a site adjoining the present Doniphan Junior High School. Funds for the capital improvements were voted by residents of the Doniphan R-1 School District in May, 1969, when the issue carried by a 92 per cent majority.

Steel Building Frames Rise on Noranda

NEW MADRID — Erection of the first structural steel building frames was the highlight of construction activity over the past few weeks at the site of the Noranda Aluminum Reduction Plant in New Madrid's St. Jude Industrial Park.

With completion of a railroad spur into the plant, heavy construction material is being delivered to the site in large quantities, and steel is going up rapidly on several major buildings. In addition to steel erection, work continues on utilities, building founcations, and erection of two large alumnina storage silos.

Work has also begun on dock facilities for unloading of plant raw materials from barges on the river.

At the reduction plant site to date over 180,000 cubic yards of earth have been excavated, nearly 443,000 tons of controlled structural fill have been placed for roads and foundations, and nearly 13,000 cubic yards of concrete have been placed in foundations and other structures

The Electrical Power Plant, being built adjacent to the Noranda Plant for the City of New Madrid, is still in the early stages of construction, but it is showing good progress. A pile test program has been completed; controlled fill for roads, railroads, and buildings is being placed; laying of railroad tracks into the site has started; and construction of the first of the plant building has begun.

At present, nearly 850 construction workers are employed on the two sites.

The reduction plant, is being designed and built by Kaiser Engineers of Oakland, California. The power plant is being designed by Burns & McDonnell Engineering Company of Kansas City, and built by Kaiser Engineers, Inc.

State Judges Dexter in Betterment Contest

DEXTER - Three state "judges" were in Dexter Wednesday morning looking at Dexter as a possible winner of the 1969 Community Betterment Award to be announced Oct. 14.

The three judges were William Hall, Industrial Development Specialist, Sedalia; Lewis Atherton, Industrial Dyveloper, Kansas City Power and Light Company; and James W. Stephens, vice-president, Missouri Public Service Company.

They were judging Dexter as a part of the continuing community betterment program of Missouri. Various categories of judging are established, a comprehensive scrapbook is submitted, and the finalists are judged by an independent team of experts.

The trio arrived in Dexter at 8:45 a.m. Wednesday, greeted by John Miller, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Community Betterment committee; Mayor Willis Conner; Joe Weber, leader in the parking lot drive just completed; Percy Clippard, chairman of the Chamber's Industrial committee; Jim Smith, president of the Chamber of Commerce; Gary Dowdy, member of the parking lot committee: Frank Schneider, a member of the Dexter Memorial Hospital board and the parking lot committee; Yewell Lawrence, member of the Industrial committee; and 28 members of the youth For Community Beterment.

After brief introductions at the airport, the motorcade traveled in the City Administration Building, where three spearate briefings on community projects were given.

Barney Miller, Dexter newspaper publisher, outlined the community awareness portion of the year's efforts. Miller stressed the importance of "knowing what is wrong, then setting out a plan of action to solve the problem. I think Dexter has done this."

Joe Weber, a leader in the development of three off-street parking lots for downtown Dexter, outlined his group's work in community betterment. Weber pointed out that the lost will "pay for themselves" through parking meters, and that outstandings support from throughout the community, in the form of contributions, helped make the lots of reality.

Harold Howells, spokesman for the Youth for Community Betterment (YCB) outlined his group's activities for the juges. The youth group is the third facet of Dexter's betterment efforts that is being judged. The high school student told the judges of the group's efforts in securing a youth center, and told the successful fund raising dinner they held, with the support of Senator Thomas Eagleton.

Following the briefings, the motorcade once again got underway, this time for a whirlwind tour of Dexter.

The group saw the parking lots under construction as well as a large portion of the business district and industrial areas. They stopped at the Fram Corporation site, where Art Anderson, plant superintendent took them on a tour.

Following the Fram tour, Frank Scheinder outlined the Dexter hospital's growth and work in the community, to conclude the tour.

The results of the judging will be known Oct. 14.

Missouri Masons To Open Assembly

ST. LOUIS - The Grand Lodge AFAM of Missouri will review its activities of the last 12 months, make budget plans for the coming year, and elect officers during its 148th annual assembly Monday and Tuesday.

About 1,500 representatives of these lodges during their annual communication will honor their chief executive officer, Grand Master Elvis A. Mooney of Bloomfield at a dinner Sunday night at the Sheraton-Jefferson Hotel.

Speaker will be Circuit Judge J. Morgan Donelson of Princeton, president of the board directing the operation of the Masonic Home of Missouri in St. Louis, and a Grand Lodge elective officer.

The Grand Lodge will open at 10 a.m. Monday in the Scottish Rite Cathedral, 3633 Lindell bl., and a Masonic Youth Night program at 8 p.m. in the auditorium will feature Job's Daughters, Rainbow Girls, DeMolay, and children of the Masonic Home entertaining delegates.

Ignorance of Dance Ban No Defense

THE CASE OF THE DANCING SPOUSES
By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Being very considerate, Norton decided to take his hard-working wife out to dinner. The restaurant chosen was quiet and quaint and featured a small combo for dancing. Before Norton could spin his wife around the floor even once, however, they were both waltzed off to jail and charged with violating a law that made it a crime to engage in dancing on Sunday.

"Somebody's off his cotton-picking mink," funed Norton when he was finally brought before the judge. "A man can't be made a criminal from dancing with his own wife, not even on Sunday. And if there is such a stupid law, I can't be convicted of violating it since I didn't know about it and because it's too vague to be valid prohibited. When my wife and I dance we couldn't be more sedate if we were two bottles of sleeping pills."

IF YOUR WERE THE JUDGE'would you find the dancing spouses guilty of breaking the law and convict them?

This is how the judge rules: YES! The judge held taht the law was not too vague since dancing has been difined as a form of exercise or amusement in which one or more persons make a series of more or less graceful movements or steps in accord with music, which was precisely what Norton and his wife were doing at the time of their arrest.

Their unawareness of the prohibition against Sunday dancing was no defense. While most crimes require an intent to break the law, concluded the judge, some do not. The legislature did not make knowledge of the law, or any intent to violate it, a prerequisite for conviction under it.

SOUTH AFRICAN MEN HAPPY

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Greater sexual freedom for women through use of the contraceptive pill is welcomed by their husbands in South Africa, a Johannesburg gynaecologist said. He was commenting on a report that by Dr. Robert Kistner, a Harvard University gynaecologist, that many American men are becoming impotent because the pill has made their wives "sexually aggressive." "I can't see that happening here," said the South African doctor.

Peterson Returns as Cairo Chief

Mayor A. B. (Pete) Thomas, who was elected by the council to succeed Lee Stenzel, who resigned, announced the appointment.

Petersen had resigned after a confrontation between blacks and police in which Petersen said arms had been displayed. He said then this indicated citizens of the community were taking the law into their own hands and that blood would be shed.

"People of Cairo of all segments have indicated to me they felt more secure when the police force was under his guidance," Thomas said in his announcement of Petersen's appointment. Thomas said police also had expressed a desire to have Petersen back as a leader. Thomas said Petersen was competent and professional.

Stenzel, the city's corporation counsel, and another commissioner all had resigned after Stenzel had agreed in a federal court hearing in Danville to a plan to limit picketing in a black boycott of white merchants.

Stenzel said he had come under criticism in the white community because of nis agreement to the plan.

The case came to federal court under a suit by the United Front of Cairo, with mostly black members, attacking a Cairo ordinance forbidding picketing and parades. The court later declared the ordinance invalid.

The Prayer from The Upper Room

He has sent me to bind up the brokenhearted,...to give them a garland instead of ashes. (Isaiah 61:1,3, RSV)

PRAYER: We thank Thee, eternal God, that through the redeeming grace of Jesus, blots can be made to contribute to beauty of character. We praise Thee for the love that judges a life not by its blunders, but by its entirety. Help us in turn to a place a garland of understanding around the mistakes of others, knowing how easy it is to err. In the name of Christ. Amen.

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The Kentucky Arts Commission supported 74 performances of symphonic, choral and chamber music, opera and ballet in various communities last year.

Mopac Promises Improvements

DEXTER - Mayor Willis Conner reported Wednesday that he once again has contactd officials of the Missouri Pacific Railroad, to complain about the rough rail-street crossing in Dexter.

Earlier this year, company officials had promised the city that new crossings would be installed "as soon as possible."

As of this week, the Mayor had heard nothing more from the railway, and called them again.

Mayor Conner was assured, by telephone, that the special timbers for the crossings are being loaded this week, and are on their way to Dexter. Company officials told him that they should arrive "in two or three weeks."

Once the timbers arrive, the Mayor was told, work can begin on the new, and smoother, crossings.

The crossings have been a source of complaints for several months.

Democratic Party Group Will Meet

CAPE GIRARDEAU — The state commission on Democratic party constitution, by-laws, and party structure will hold its fourth regional meeting Wednesday, at the Colonial Tavern. The hearing, which is open to the public, will begin at 9 a.m.

George M. Burrus, Jefferson City is chairman.

1. What must the Missouri Democratic Party do to meet the requirements for delegate selection mandated by the 1968 Democratic National Convention?

2. What should be the relationship between he Democratic State Committee and the County and City Committees?

Fire Destroys 19 Bales of Cotton

Owners of the gin said the fire was discovered by a truck driver shortly before 5. A truck from the Poplar Bluff Fire Department went to the scene and was there for two hours.

The fire is believed to have started from a "hot bale" gin officials said. They stated bales may come out of the gin with some fire and may go 24 to 48 hours before it breaks out. The bales were on the loading dock, which is concrete.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. -- Some forgotten soul once said, "There are two sides to every story," and some Missouri legislators are complaining that their side isn't being told, regarding the current controversy over the recently passed legislative retirement fund increase.

An organization called The Committee for Fair Pensions is circulating petitions over the state, calling for a referendum election next November (1970) to let the people approve or disapprove the retirement plan the legislators set up for themselves.

The legislators, according to Rep. Frank Mickelson (D-Cass County), think new reports on the retirement system are incomplete and don't tell the whole story.

"We've prepared a chart that shows what has been done in the past and what the new law (House Bill 480) will do when it goes into effect October 13," Mickelson and his office neighbor, Rep. Dean Shaver (D—Anderson) said last week.

Mickelson's chart, which goes back to 1957, shows that in 12 years the legislators have increased the amount they pay into the retirement fund from $60 per year to $336 a year. Their annual pension benefits have gone up from $480 per year after eight years service to $1,080 after six years service.

Originally, in 1957, the legislators drew $1500 in salary. They paid $60 per year into the retirement fund. In 1961 the salary was set at $4800 and the legislator's contribution was $192. After six years he was elibible, upon reaching retirement age of 60, to draw an annual pension of $1080.

In 1969 the legislators' new salary of $8400 took effect, and their contribution was $336 per year, but retirement benefits remained at $1080.

The state, which also puts four per cent into the fund, had to make the appropriate increases as salary went up, to put in the same amount as the legislator.

Under the new plan in question, legislators are going to put in twice as much from their salary (from $336 annually to $672), since they have doubled their contribution to the retirement fund from 4 per cent to 8 per cent. The state's contribution will remain at 4 per cent of the legislator's salary. They will receive slightly less than twice as much as before in annual benefits.

Their benefits will go up from a minimum of $1080 to a minimum of $2016 annually, but they will qualify to begin drawing the increased benefits at age 55 instead of age 60.

Mickelson said, "The original plan of 1957 actually paid more, percentage - wise when figured against the amount we invest in the plan. than the new plan will."

Until the new plan takes effect, money which state legislators have set aside for retirement has been put into the general state employees retirement fund, which currently has assets of $61 million.

House Bill 480 takes the retirement money which current legislators have had invested in the state employee retirement fund and puts it into a separate fund just for legislators. Former Missouri representatives and senators, who are not now in office and have money in the state employee fund will have to leave it there rather than having it transferred to the more lucrative legislators' fund. If a former legislator is elected to office at some future date he can then join the new fund and his accrued retirement money, plus the interest it has earned, will be moved over to the legislators' retirement fund.

The new plan does not allow a legislator to draw both salary and retirement pay at the same time if he is serving in office. If a legislator is on retirement and is then re-elected, his retirement is cut off and will be recomputed when he leaves office.

Critics of the new plan say it is unfair because other state employees have to work longer to become eligible for retirement, have a later retirement systems compare: State employees put four per cent of their annual salary into their retirement systems compare: State employees put four per cent of salary into each fund.

To retire, state employees must have had at least 15 years service and be at least 60 years old. Legislators must have had at least six years service and be at least 55 years old.

Upon qualifying for retirement, state employees will receive one and one- fourth per cent of their average compensation multiplied by the number of years service they gave the state. In addition, a legislator serving more than 20 years will receive one per cent of whatever legislators are receiving as compensation at the time for each year over 20 years.

Despite all he facts and figures, the real issue may lie in what Missourians think of their legislators.

When approached to sign the referendum petitions, and, if the referendum petition campaign is successful, during the ensuing campaigns for and against the issue, Missourians may have to decide the "hierarchy" of their state government, perhaps by asking themselves the following questions:

1. Is an elected state legislator to be considered as more important, less important or equal to a hired state employee?

2. Should legislators have their own retirement system, as set up in House Bill 480, or should they be included in the system for all State of Missouri employees?

3. What is a fair and reasonable retirement plan?

The citizens of Missouri will have to provide the answers to these and other questions to make their decisions. And the answers will have to come soon-- the October 13 deadline for receiving the referendum petitions is only about two weeks away.

NEW TOURISM DIRECTOR COMMENTS ON FUTURE

Jack M. Jones, new director of the Missouri Tourism Commission, says recreational facilities in he state have "limitless possibilities."

In a recent speech in Stockton, Jones said he was looking ahead toward the completion of the Stockton dam and the possibilities for development on the 250- mile shoreline.

"Camping along will be meaningful for this area, for campers need groceries, gasoline, and entertainment and the premium on good camp sites, publicly and privately operated, is constantly going up," he said.

Jones noted that water sports were also attracting the attention of more tourists, saying that 85 per cent of persons surveyed said their camping trips were water-oriented. And, he added, Missouri is blessed with lots of rivers, streams and lakes.

"Who could have forecast, for instance, with any degree of accuracy what the Lake of the Ozarks would mean with the advent of Bagnell Dam years ago. Some people with vision, I'm sure, had an inkling of it, but I would guess it surpassed even the most imaginative."

Jones said the recreational area upsurge in the state will be very good for the outstate regions where more money will be made in fulfilling the needs of tourists. He also said non-metropolitan residents have the extra advantage of being closer to new recreational areas and can take full advantage of them easier.

Absence of Doctors, Ease of Drugs Hazard in Nursing Homes

Editor's Note: Many nursing home patients haven't seen a doctor in months—some not for years. Instead, telephone medicine is a fact of life. This is the fourth of five articles.

By JAMES R. POLK

For the sick and dying, the average amount of doctor's care may be only a few minutes a month.

Of all a doctor's patients at office and hospital, the one in the nursing home is usually the last he sees.

In state after state across the nation, an Associated Press investigation has found nurses meet emergencies by telephoning doctors who prescribe drugs without having seen their patients for weeks or months.

"Telephone medicine is a fact of life in nursing homes," said one state's top inspector.

"We'll even do it with some narcotics," said another state nursing supervisor in New Jersey. "You know how hard it is to get a doctor at 3 o'clock in the morning."

Many doctors, already hard pressed to keep up their hospital cases, don't find the time to visit nursing home patients with any regularity. Other doctors admit frankly they feel they can do more for the patients who have a chance at life than the aged and the dying.

An Illinois nursing home operator said, "I was shocked the first time I asked one doctor, 'Why don't you come more often?' and he said, 'To tell the truth, it depresses the hell out of me.'"

Both the government and the medical profession now back the goal of a visit to nursing home patients by a doctor a minimum of once a month.

But in Topeka, Kans., a comprehensive official study of the area's nursing homes last year showed fully one-fourth of all the patients had not been seen by a doctor in at least six months.

In one large Topeka home, the total was three-fourths without a doctor's visit in half a year.

In another government-financed study of more than 100 homes throughout Minnesota, researchers computed the average amount of doctor's care per patient at less than 2½ minutes a week.

A physician who manages a top-rated nonprofit nursing home in St. Paul, Minn., pointed to one of his patients and said, "that woman—her doctor hasn't seen her in five years."

With federal programs now paying $1.6 billion a year to finance most of the nursing home care in the nation through medicaid and medicare, a crackdown is on the books. But it has yet to reach the bedside.

A sleeper proposal in new standards adopted this summer for medicaid, the huge program of health care for the poor, requires a minimum of one doctor's visit each month.

Frank Frantz, a federal official who helped draw up the new medicaid regulations, said, "The lack of a doctor is at the root of a lot of the problems in nursing homes. But I don't think the 30-day requirement will solve them."

Frantz said, "It's a question of how the doctor uses the nursing home. I think it's a difference of whether a nursing home is to be where a physician puts a person or where he practices medicine."

States usually require doctors to sign their telephone orders afterwards, but are lax on how soon they must do it. Arizona for instance, instructs a doctor to sign the records on his next trip—but requires he visit the nursing home only once a year.

In Minnesota, nursing homes mail the doctors a form to sign, and the patient may remain unseen by the physician for weeks.

Minnesota does require that, unless a doctor spells out a specific period for a prescription, the drugs should be cut off after seven days. But enforcement is slipshod.

In one Minnesota home a chloral hydrate prescription had run for six years without any specific instruction.

The case embarassed the city's inspector, who serves on the board of directors of the same church-owned nursing home in what she said "may be a conflict of interest."

The inspector told the practical nurse on duty, "You don't order a drug forever, you know."

"That's what we've been doing," answered the nurse. "What else can you do? So many of our doctors aren't coming in. We have a hard time even contacting doctors by telephone."

The absence of doctors, the diagnosis from a distance and the easy use of drugs add up to an unhealthy situation in many of America's nursing homes.

In California, inspectors said half of all violations of state regulations they find in nursing homes involve proplems in carrying out the patient care ordered by doctors.

"Lots of times things are ordered and the nurse doesn't write it down, or she writes it down incorrectly," said Dr. Gottlieb L. Oirth of Los Angeles' health department.

Billings to Hear Gray Case Review

NEW MADRID – Circuit Judge Marshall Craig of Sikeston, has disqualified himself in the Dan Westley Gray case. He said he feels the same issues will be heard in the hearing that was heard previously in Gray's trial and he might be influenced by prior decisions. Judge William H. Billings of Kennett, has been appointed for the hearing.

Gray, 42, serving a 60-year sentence for second degree murder, has been given a review by the Missouri Supreme Court on orders from Federal Judge John W. Oliver of Kansas City.

In ordering the review, the federal district court declared it had "determined that appellant was afforded assistance of counsel which was so inadequate and ineffective that his federal constitutional right to the effective assistance of counsel was violated."

Date of the review has not been set.

Since he was sentenced in 1961 of slaying New Madrid County Deputy Sheriff C. L. Phillips, Gray has been fighting for a new trial. Twice he carried his appeal the federal district court after the Missouri court had affirmed his conviction and sentence.

Gray was convicted of murdering Phillips on Sept. 12, 1960, when the deputy and Sheriff W. L. Ramsey tried to arrest him on a burglary warrant.

The sheriff was wounded in the shoulder and lost an eye.

Three Hurt In Collision

Three were injured Saturday afternoon at East Malone and Ingram in a two car collision.

A 1965 Chevrolet, driven by Homer G. Halford, 58, of 652 Matthews, collided with a 1964 Chrysler driven by Rosa Jean Galemore, 22, of 708 South Main St., Charleston.

Both drivers suffered minor injuries along with Frankie Jo Skelton, 1214 Charleston Ave., Charleston, a passenger in the Galemore vehicle. Skelton suffered a face injury.

The front end of the Galemore car was damaged and damages to the Halford auto include the right side, front end, and left front end.

Four were killed in traffic accidents over the weekend and a fifth died Saturday from injuries suffered in an accident Thursday morning.

Two New Madrid young men, Tommie Bibbs Jr., and James Lee Brown, 22, were killed Saturday at 10:30 p.m., on highway 61, three miles south of Sikeston.

It was not determined who was driving the 1960 Pontiac but the patrol reported the car was speeding, when the driver lost control, skidded off the road 840 feet, and struck a culvert, throwing three passengers from the car.

Brown died enroute to a Memphis hospital. His body and that of Bibbs were taken to Richards Funeral Home at New Madrid.

Clyde Griffin, 62, Arbyrd, died at 1:35 a.m. Saturday in a Memphis hospital, as the result of injuries he received in a highway accident, Thursday morning on highway 25 in Cardwell.

His body was taken to the McDaniel Funeral Home in Kennett.

He was driving a 1966 Rambler, when he lost control, ran off the road and struck a utility pole.

Two died in an accident Sunday 4:55 p.m. on highway 67, one mile north of Silva.

A 1968 Dodge, driven by Jewell Walker, 58, Patterson, stopped to make a left turn, when her car was struck in the rear by a 1967 Mercury, driven by Wyatt Davis Jr., 38, Poplar Bluff.

A 1968 GMC tractor trailer, driven by Danny Demont, 39, Cuba, then struck the Walker car, causing it to overturn.

Mrs. Walker died at the scene. A passenger in her car, Goldie Layton, 53, St. Louis, sister of Mrs. Walker, was dead on arrival at Doctors hospital in Poplar Bluff. Both ladies were sisters of D. R. Maloney, 307 Dorothy street, Sikeston.

The body of Walker was taken to Gish-Bowles Funeral Home in Piedmont. Layton was taken to a St. Louis funeral home.

Heavy U.S. Casualties Goal Of Captured Enemy Document

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command has a captured enemy document stating that Hanoi's goals are to inflict heavy American casualties to prevent de-escalation of the Vietnam war while the United States is in a position of strength, official sources said today.

The informants said the document was captured north of Saigon Sept. 5 and outlines a program for implementing the Communist Command's battle plans.

However, the disclosure was coupled with an announcement that enemy activity had dropped to its lowest level in Saigon and 11 surrounding provinces since the week ending last July 26.

One source said: "The enemy's intentions remain obscure and his immediate goals are unclear. There has been no evidence of a large-scale effort planned for the immediate future.

The captured document said heavy American losses in past campaigns had forced the United States to halt the bombing of North Vietnam and to withdraw 25,000 troops during the past summer.

It emphasized what it termed Viet Cong and North Vietnamese diplomatic successes compelling the United States to fight passively and negotiate at the same time in Paris.

Under one heading termed "conspiracies of the United States in the near future," the document said American policy is to de-Americanize the war gradually with emphasis placed on the preservation of U.S. manpower and material strength, trying to end the war in a strong position.

The document instructed enemy troops to destroy the South Vietnamese government and its administrative machinery; increase military action and expand the armed forces; heighten the role of the Viet Cong's revolutionary government; and increase civilian, military and political proselyting.

An official U.S. assessment of the war said elements of four North Vietnamese divisions threatening the 3rd Corps military zone had pulled back to base areas along the Cambodian border, and the enemy 5th Division's "possible movement northward toward the Cambodian border further complicates the situation and offers no tangible indication of the unit's intentions."

The assessment continued: "Added to the difficulties of judgments is the lack of information received during the week on the 7th, 9th and 1st Divisions.

"We estimate the coming week will see a continued shifting of units with possibly a more definite picture of subordination, areas of likely activity and intentions emerging. The divisional units are not likely to engage in heavy actions, but localized activity by sub-region forces can be expected as they attempt to complete resupply, reconnaissance and preparations for a more intensive offensive period in October.

"We think that the positioning of the divisional forces is a repeat of the pattern seen previously when these units were engaged in reorganization and refitting in preparation for major actions, and that this positioning in the border sanctuaries does not indicate a de-escalation by the enemy."

In one of the few actions reported this morning, military spokesmen said North Vietnamese troops attacked an American armored column three miles south of the demilitarized zone but were beaten back in a four-hour fight.

Purge That Ousted Dubeck Camp Spreads All Over Czechoslovakia

PRAGUE (AP) — A weekend purge that swept reformer Alexander Dubcek and his supporters from Communist party and government leadership spread today throughout Czechoslovakia.

Reports reached Prague of new regional shakeups from eastern Slovakia to northwestern Bohemia in the Communist party and in the National Front, which controls organizations outside the party.

Czechoslovakia's Communist bosses, toeing the pro-Soviet Line, had promised a sweeping party shakeup of "social organizations, state and economic apparatus, science and culture" in announcing the purges Sunday.

President Ludvik Svoboda said a new government would be announced today. Nine cabinet members were thrown out or had their jobs abolished.

Dubcek, 47, the former Communist party boss and still very popular, was ousted from the ruling Presidium and removed as president of the National Assembly. But he retained his seat on the party's Central Committee.

Josef Smrkovsky, one of Dubcek's closest aides in the 1968 reform era from January until the Aug. 22 Soviet invasion, was removed as vice president of the National Assembly.

The Czechoslovak news agency CTK said party chief Gustav Husak told a plenary meeting of the Central Committee last Thursday that new membership cards will be issued and that a future plenary session will deal with such a proposal.

Husak said, according to CTK, that the card replacement would not only be "a formal act" but would rid the party of rank-and-file members "who are unable to get rid of views hostile to our teachings." He said every member's attitude regarding political views, work and character would be assessed.

Smrkovsky and former Foreign Minister Jiri Hajek were among nine men expelled from the Central Committee—three of them being thrown out of the party itself. Nineteen other liberal members resigned under pressure. The 29th to leave was Planning Minister Frantisek Vlasak, who was expelled as an alternate member.

Josef Kempny, 49, a conservative, replaced Dubcek within the Presidium and was one of six deputy premiers named in the new government. Kempny also was among 13 new conservatives placed on the Central Committee in a distinct shift toward orthodox Communist control.

Dubcek's retention on the Central Committee was surprising in view of Husak's report accusing him of repeated errors in the months leading to the invasion by Warsaw Pact members.

Stevenson May Enter Race for Dirksen Seat

WASHINGTON (AP) — The bearer of one of the most prominent names in recent Democratic history, Adlai E. Stevenson III, has decided to seek the Illinois Senate seat of the late Everett M. Dirksen, authoritative sources say.

But he may face a primary challenge in March from a Chicago congressman.

Rep. Roman C. Pucinski, 50, is considering a bid next year for the seat now occupied by Sen. Ralph T. Smith, the Republican named to succeed Dirksen.

Stevenson—the 38-year-old state treasurer who is the son of the former governor and twotime Democratic presidential nominee—is expected to declare himself a candidate in November.

If Pucinski decides to challenge him, it could set up only the second contested statewide Democratic primary in some 35 years, according to Illinois political observers.

Kopechnes Say Public Curiosity Should Not Justify Autopsy

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP) — An attorney for Mary Jo Kopechne's parents said today the public's curiosity about how she died in Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's car should not justify an autopsy on her body.

"There must be proof of a crime and that an autopsy can prove or disprove the guilt or innocence of one suspected of criminal conduct," said Joseph F. Flanagan, attorney for the Kopechne's who moved for dismissal of a Massachusetts petition for exhumation and autopsy.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Kopechne of Berkeley Heights, N.J., were in the courtroom of Common Pleas Judge Bernard C. Brominski when arguments began today. It was the first time they have been present during a legal fight against disturbing their daughter's grave.

Flanagan repeated his claim that Dist. Atty. Edmund Dinis of New Bedford, Mass., had failed to provide sufficient evidence that a crime was committed when Miss Kopechne died in the July 18 car accident, on Chappaquiddick Island, off the Massachusetts coast.

Dinis has said that there was blood on Miss Kopechne's blouse and in her mouth and nose and this "may or may not be consistent with death by drowning."

Death by drowning was the ruling made by a Massachusetts medical examiner. No autopsy was performed.

Flanagan said that the alleged new evidence that Dinis provided in an amendment to his petition still was insufficient.

"The test of whether or not an autopsy will be ordered cannot be based upon guesswork or speculation," Flanagan told the court.

Dinis was not in the courtroom. His argument against dismissal of the autopsy petition was made by Armand Fernandes, an assistant district attorney from Dukes County, Mass.

Armstrong, Aldrin and Collins Begin World Tour

HOUSTON (AP) — The three Americans who went "in peace for all mankind" to the moon embark today on a world tour to promote good will on earth.

Bearing personal greetings to foreign heads of state from President Nixon, Apollo 11 astronauts Neil Armstrong, Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. and Michael Collins are scheduled to visit 22 nations in 38 days.

They will present to each country a replica of the moon landing plaque bearing the inscription "We came in peace for all mankind" and signed by each astronaut and the President.

The astronauts, scheduled to leave Houston today for the first stop in Mexico City, will be accompanied by their wives.

The three are the first astronauts to undertake a world tour in behalf of the United States and the first three-man American space team to go abroad.

Their itinerary does not—with the exception of Yugoslavia— take them to Communist controlled nations or to the warring countries of the Middle East, although they have scheduled stops in Iran and Turkey.

Col. Frank Borman, commander of the Apollo 8 lunar mission, visited the Soviet Union this spring, prior to the Apollo 11 moon shot.

In addition to replicas of the moon landing plaque, the astronauts will present heads of state with metal discs bearing messages—each reduced to the size of a pinhead—from 73 nations wishing the Apollo 11 mission success. The Original also was left on the moon.

No samples of lunar material gathered by Armstrong and Aldrin will be taken on the tour, National Aeronautics and Space Administration officials said.

Nixon telephoned Armstrong at his Seabrook, Tex., home Sunday to wish him and the others luck on the trip. The President invited the astronauts and their wives to dinner at the White House on the day they returned home, Nov. 5.

From Mexico City they will go to Bogota, Columbia; Buenos Aires, Argentina, and Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, in South America before flying to the Canary Islands Oct. 4.

In western Europe they have stops in Madrid, Paris, Amsterdam, Brussels, Oslo, Cologne, Berlin, London and Rome. After visiting Belgrade Oct. 18-19 they go to Ankara, Turkey; Kinshasa, The Congo, and Tehran, Iran. Asian and Pacific stops are Bombay, India; Dacca, Pakistan; Bangkok, Thailand; Darwin and Sydney, Australia; Guam; Seoul, and Tokyo. They will stop at Honolulu enroute to Houston.

McNamara Outlines World Bank Goals

WASHINGTON (AP) - World Bank President Robert S. McNamara today told of grim, worsening conditions in the underfed, undereducated and overpopulated parts of the world and said only a broad program of advice as well as money can help.

"What we need - and what we must fashion - is a more effective overall development strategy," McNamara told the governors of four major international financial and development organizations gathered here for their annual joint meeting.

Governors of the bank and its affiliates, the International Development Association and the International Finance Corporation, plus the International Monetary Fund, began five days of hard stop talk.

McNamara, the former U. S. secretary of defense completing his first full year as head of the Washington - based bank, said his findings on recent trips to Latin America, Asia and Africa confirmed the new course he charted last year.

"Everything I saw supported our decision in the bank to give a new emphasis to population planning, educational advance and agricultural growth," he said.

But he said he also found that, while solving those problems is fundamental, "no such strategy will be complete unless it provides for an attack on the interrelated problems of unemployment, urganization and industrialization."

McNamara has in the past put heavy emphasis on solving the problem of too-rapid population increase, and today called it "the greatest single obstacle to the economic and social advancement of the majority of peoples in the underdeveloped world."

The bank has set up a new Population Projects Department, which McNamara said already has found that "the immediate need is less for financial assistance than for technical advice and counsel."

For the rest of this week, the governors - who are finance ministers of central bankers of their countries - will hear speeches in public and negotiate behind closed doors on the problems of the world's money, trade and aid to underdeveloped nations.

The meeting lasts until Friday, and on the final day the IMF governors are expected to vote into effect a new system of "paper gold" - formally, Special Drawing Rights - to supplement the worldwide supply of reserves nations use to settle their accounts.

Daley Chides Trial Coverage

Daley, addresseding the Catholic Lawyers Guild of Chicago, said Sunday that broadcast trial coverage so far encouraged violence, distorted truth and obstructed justice.

"It presents fragments of events," said Daley. "Whatever is extreme and violent and moving it reports out of context without giving all the facts, a practice that would not be allowed in the courtroom."

Daley claimed that an attmempt was being made to focus attention on the demonstrations outside the courtroom rather than the trial proceedings.

Hoffman ordered two of the attorneys - Gerald B. Lefcourt of New York and Michael. E. Tiger of Los Angeles - jailed Friday for failing to appear at the beginning of the trial. The two were later released on personal recognizance bonds.

RANDOM COMMENT

While clearing our desk the other day, we came across some jottings which, for pure bias and petulance of view, would be different to top. There being few things so satisfying as sharing prejudices, here are a few of ours:

The Vietnam War: Not even children can understand this. We're fighting a war no one seems to want. We're fighting a war which no one seems to think can be won. We are allied with a faction which appears to be antagonistic and resentful of our presence, but which is willing to accept arms, money, and other items as being their due. Puzzle: How does this country get out without losing, or winning, the war?

The Administration: Our general impression is that President Nixon is out to please everybody, but is having trouble getting some of his nominees past just a few Congressmen. One think he's good at: accumulating real estate.

Weather Forecasting: Why don't we just give up and face the fact that we aren't any better at this than we ever were? The only difference is that we have been to trust those fellows on TV who sound so authoritative and who turn out to be so wrong. Just like us.

Football: Anyone who has ever worn a football uniform knows that this is no sport to launch in August. But look at what happened. If the trend continues, there will be a brief let-up the first two weeks of June.

Movies: We'd rather read the book than see the movie, but we can't leave the book around the house.

Air Conditioning: We've been reading the instructions to no avail. Would rather feel it than read about it.

Air Travel: Fine if you're in no hurry to get to the airport, to get checked in, to get on the plane, to get the plane into the air, to land, to get off the plane, to pick up the luggage, to get a taxi, to get to your hotel, to get your luggage. Note: You can save a little time by losing your luggage.

A NEW PHOENIX

Legends about the phoenix color the mythology of many ancient civilizations. The phoenix was a bird that lived, according to the fables, many centuries. It was consumed in the flames of its own nest, then rose from the ashes to live again.

Our own country is about to witness a new phoenix in the spirit of Biloxi - Gulfport and the other areas hard hit by the raging storm that was hurricane Camille. This phoenix will rise, not from ashes, but from the rubble of crumbled cement and brick, and splintered remnants of tumbled wood. We have faith in this new phoenix, because the inhabitants of these stricken areas have faith in themselves and in the elusive wraith known as the American dream. It is the prime cause of our being the envy of the world. Tolalitarian nations despise us for it; our friends try, but somehow cannot match it.

Bob McHugh, associate editor of the Daily Herald of Biloxi-Gulfport, Mississippi, and Eugene Wilkes, senior editor, toured the ravaged areas of the twin cities two days after Camille's rampage. During the tour, the two newsmen spotted an American flag flying over the tangled mass of what once had been a building. They published a photograph of the banner on page one and, soon after, Highway 90 was dotted with a dozen or more flags.

The Daily Herald ordered 500 flag kits at $2.50 per set and resold the sets at one dollar, absorbing the difference in cost. The supply went quickly and the streets were soon lined with red, white and blue. Another 1,000 flags were ordered and they, too, sold out. At last count, the Daily Herald was awaiting a fourth shipment of flags, for a total of almost 4,000, many of them already spoken for. One Virginia newsman sent five dollars for one kit, requesting that the overpayment be turned over to hurricane relief.

Bob McHugh believes that the movement could lead to an annual Gulf Coast Flag Day on August 17th, as a memorial to the dead (128 at last count), and also serve as a means of remembering the spirit of those who suffered the storm's fury and rose, like a new phoenix, from the ruins.

Mexican Proverb: "Eat a big breakfast, a bigger lunch, a small dinner, and you'll live a long time."

In his thought-provoking book, "The America We Lost," Mario Pei wrote:

"For every benefit that the government holds out, the question should be asked: What am I required to give up in return?

"A careful formulation of an answer will usually bring to light that the price demanded is greater than the benefit offered, whether in taxes, or in restrictions of individual freedom and initiative, or in self-respect.

"We should love our government insofar as it is an expression of the will of the people. We should fear it, as Frankenstein should have feared his creation, for the monster it may turn into under given conditions."

LABOR'S SOUL

The annual Labor Party Conference is to be held in the Victorian seaside resort of Brighton from September 20 to October 3.

LONDON -- "Labor's Got Life and Soul," claim the party's political advertisements in England. But this propaganda has set everyone wondering exactly what kind of "soul" a group of disgruntled intellectuals, unhappy Socialist fundamentalists, calloused trade union leaders and squabbling government ministers can have. Perhaps the closest they'll come to it is the English version of soul food: Fish 'n Chips.

As the Labor Party meets for its 68th congress, not even Prime Minister Harold Wilson's Pollyannish pronouncements are likely to boost the sagging spirits of the rank and file. Labor's financial deficit is steadily mounting and membership has fallen to the lowest levels since 1951.

The source of greatest intra-party tension remains the extraordinary clash which occurred early this summer between the government and the trade unions. Wilson tried to make unofficial strikes punishable by law, but because the Trade Union Council is the paymaster of the party, the Prime Minister eventually had to back down.

Historically, the British Labor movement is the most successful non-Communist left-wing party in any large industrial country, notes the OBSERVER. This success has been due to its tie-up to the trade unions. These very links, however, are currently the source of the party's troubles. "Lip service is paid to the idea of worker's control and industrial democracy," says the Sunday TIMES, but Wilson has done little to further such basic union demands as equal pay for women.

The Labor Party National Executive Committee published a report of "Labor's Economic Strategy" which is to serve as a basis for discussion at the party conference. This report made about two dozen key recommendations, ranging from government inquiry into industrial mergers to an annual wealth tax of between 1 to 5 per cent to the levied on an individual's total personal wealth.

The ECONOMIST described this report's tone as "sad and dispirited" and dismissed Labor's economic perspective as "vacuous." The English press generally gave a thumbs down response to the task force's proposals.

The stronghold of the unions on the party arouses little sympathy from the young. Most left-wing intellectuals within the party are also alienated and so are some of its MPs. Labor MP Christopher Mayhew in a new book, PARTY GAMES, expressed his "unconquerable distaste" for the sham party battles fought between the Tories and the Laborites in Parliament when their records and policies on so many subjects are so similar.

Labor now must decide the strategy for its election campaign, which must likely will be held in the fall of 1970. With many Englishmen asking themselves whether Labor has a future, Wilson must use the Brighton Congress to resolve his party's identity crisis.

Despite these problems, Wilson does not go to Brighton empty-handed. The most recent Gallup poll shows that the Conservative party's margin over Labor is 9.5 per cent -- enough to produce a large Tory majority in the House but down sharply from a 23.5 per cent advantage as recently as July. Wilson no doubt will use these figures to argue that the political tide is turning back in favor of Labor.

Fat is a penalty if you are seeking business success. Although one out of every three executives is classed as overweight, only one out of every 10 in the top financial brackets is as much as 10 pounds above normal weight.

Airplanes as well as automobiles are now having trouble finding free wheeling space. It is estimated that in the next five years alone some 700 new airports will be needed in the United States and most major airports already in existence should double their capacity to handle traffic safely.

The more prosperous the nation becomes, the more it forks out for the losers in life's chase of the almighty dollar. A study by Tax Foundation, Inc., revealed that in 1968 federal, state and local governments spent nearly $18 billion on welfare programs for the needy, almost 2 1/2 times the amount spent in 1960.

Quotable notables: "If we do not permit the earth to produce beauty and joy, it will in the end not produce food either."—Joseph Wood Krutch.

The cup that kills: Each year some 200,000 Americans are hospitalized for treatment of delirium tremens resulting from excessive drinking; of the six persons who die each hour in traffic accidents, three of the deaths are attributed to misuse of alcohol.

Are you one of those timid souls who habitually turn the other cheek when you are offended? Well, that might give you the rheumatiz. Dr. Harold Geist, a Berkeley, Calif., psychologist, says attacks of arthritis appear to be triggered by the inability of people with "weak egos" to express their anger openly.

Tip to students: If you wish to memorize something, the best way is to rehearse the material just before going to bed and immediately after arising in the morning — thus giving both your conscious and subconscious minds opportunity to fix it in your memory.

Here's another reason for considering going on a low-fat diet: Dr. Samuel Rosen, New York ear specialist, says studies show that the hearing of patients on low-cholesterol diets tends to improve, regardless of their age, and becomes less sharp again if they go off the diets.

Washington - Merry Go - Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON--Milady's vanity case, according to government inspectors, may contain contaminated cosmetics. Yet some manufacturers of lipsticks and lotions have refused to cooperate with the food and drug administration in protecting the public.

An analysis of 250 cosmetic products purchased in retail stores, for instance, turned up 61 samples of bacterial contamination. The tests showed that 12 of 43 hand lotions, 12 of 36 liquid eyeliners and 12 of 28 eyeshadow products were contaminated.

The danger to ladies who use makeup is so serious that FDA may ask Congress for new legislation--with teeth in it--to regulate cosmetics.

Food and drug officials have refused to identify the uncooperative manufacturers or to reveal the brand names of the products that have developed contamination. In answer to inqueries, officials merely call attention to a recent speech by commissioner Herbert Ley.

In the speech, he stated guardely: "Let me mention another recall we learned about recently, mentioning it is about all I can do. During a routine inspection of a large West Coast cosmetic manufacturer, we discovered that the firm had recalled a hair conditioner because of mold contamination.

"How many tubes and jars were recalled?" asked Dr. Ley. "The firm refused to answer. Lot numbers? The firm refused to give them. Area of distribution? Again, no answer."

NAMING NAMES

From the FDA's confidential files, however, this column can report that the uncooperative company was Max Factor, which does a multi-million dollar business around the world. Its products are international favorites, used by movie stars and glamor girls.

The contaminated product that had to be withdrawn was Max Factor's "Tried and True," A protein hair conditioner, which turned out to be more tried than true.

Elizabeth Arden was also obliged to recall 2,280 pints of contamined "June Geranium" hand lotion. and Dell labs halted the sale of "Lash-Brite" liquid eyeliner after an entire lot of 57,300 bottles was found to be contaminated.

Not even baby lotions are always safe. Charles Pfizer's leeming-Pacquin division stopped distributing desitin topical baby lotion after two lots turned up with gram negative bacteria.

For children, Dunham products put out "Li'l Shaver" toy razor kits, which contained four-ounce bottles of contaminated "play after shave" lotion. Of 70 gross manufactured since January, 30 gross remain on the market.

Contamination has been discovered, too, in men's toilet articles. Pearson Pharmacal Company, for example, had to recall 63,965 plastic bottles of "Sir Kostot after shave kondition." All but 2,237 bottles have been returned.

Many other contaminated cosmetics have also been discovered--a record, in Dr. Ley's words, that does not "Engender complacency."

Note: Commissioner ley pointed out in his cautious speech that "many cosmetic products provide a hospitable environment for the growth of bacteria, since they contain water and various organic ingredients."

IF SHOE FITS

A congressional delegation, led by Maine's pert, prim sin. Margaret Chase Smith, called upon President Nixon the other day to plead the plight of the Nation's shoemakers.

The President watched their approach with a bemused expression.

"Everyone has on nice shoes," he observed. "I see a few brown ones."

He listened intently as a spokesman for the shoe industry, Robert Lockridge, president of Craddock Terry shoe company, described how shoe imports have shot up from 8 per cent to 28 per cent and shoe exports have dropped from five million to three million pairs since 1960.

The President nodded gravely.

"Textiles are in serious condition potentially," he said. "Shoes are in serious condition now."

He also noted that shoemaking was a "job-creating industry."

"There are 140 separate operations in making shoes," chimed in Lockridge.

"Mr. President, " he said. "There are shoe businesses in 253 congressional districts. Of the 25 members of the house ways and means committee, 22 have shoe companies in their districts."

UNDER THE DOME

The late Sen. Everett Dirksen's favorite errand boy, Nebraska Sen. Roman Hruska, desperately tired to keep Dirksen's seat in the family. Hruska telephoned Illinois Gov. Richard Ogilvie and begged him to appoint Dirksen's widow, Louella, to the vacancy. Later, Hruska led the abortive campaign to elect Dirksen's son-in-law, Tennessee Sen. Howard Baker, Jr., as senate republican leader....The real reason Baker sought the leadership, say senate wags, was so he could continue using Dirksen's government limousine. All the while Dirksen was the leader, the Bakers used the limousine more often than did the Dirksens...Pennsylvania Sen. Hugh Scott celebrated his ellection as Dirksen's successor by throwing a small, private champagne party. Illinois Sen. Charles Percy barged into the party, loudly proclaiming: "Now that I've given my speech on hunger, I'm whetting my lips for champagne."...At the party, Michigan Sen. Robert Griffin said he hoped that Scott would soon rise form minority to majority leader. "It doesn't matter whether I'm Majority or minority leader," retorted Scott. "The salary is the same."

loans of 6.5 percent, in California where the average bank interest rate is 7.7 percent, independent businessmen report 18 percent of their volume done on credit cards.

Tentatively, it appears that banks who have heavily gone into consumer credit via the credit car route (which yields an interest rate of 1 1/2 percent per month on the unpaid balance) tends to raise their rates to independent business borrowers.

While there seems to be no question, according to Federation researchers, that bank credit cards are a boon to independent merchants in competition with corporate merchandisers who offer customers "revolving credit", there is a question as to whether bank credit cards tend to force up all interest rates in a manifestation of Gresham's Law.

This situation could lead to further governmental action in the creidt field, it is believed, if the present income surtax and the other measures prove to be no more effective in dampening inflation than they have up until the present.

During World War II, the use of Regulation 'W' which severely curtailed the use of consumer credit is claimed to have held down what could have been a serious inflationary spiral at that time.

However, curtailment of consumer credit would probably slow down production of consumer goods and increase unemployment. This presents a problem to a government seeking to have plenty of guns and butter while at the same time desiring full employment, expensive military operations, a big foreign aid program and also a huge domestic social welfare program.

When the Federal Reserve System was enacted in 1913, marking the fourth major change in the nation's banking set-up, its proponents did not conceive that the system would be employed as at present to manage money to achieve high levels of employment, or to monetize a high governmental debt.

No Night Clashes

"Dear Dad: Tell mother not to worry. I am not in a front-line position. The Administration is putting up a stiff resistance against the new fall offensive. They're still holding the President's office after recapturing it from the student occupation troops last spring. Everyone has shown an interest in our well-being and we are being protected. Air-raid wardens have given us maps locating the nearest fall-out shelters and fire-extinguishers, and the Medical Corps has issued first-aid kits, splints and antiseptics.

"However there is an outside possibility I may get caught unwillingly in the action to come. So you'd better send money for trench helmet, gas mask and escape hatch."

H.L. Hunt Says

INTEREST IS NOT INTERESTING

The interest on the national debt is more appalling than interesting. Since 1961, the federal government has spent $60 billion more than it has taken in, as a result the U.S. Treasury has had to borrow that much more money and pay interest on it. On top of that, inflation has brought on a considerable rise in the interest rates which must be paid for borrowed money.

The Treasury today has to pay more that twice as much in interest as it paid in 1961. In the current fiscal year interest payments on the public debt are expected to amount to $17.8 billion. That is a record, but it is a record which can hardly be expected to stand unless the longtime deficit spending trend is reversed. Already the cost to the average American family of interest on the national debt amounts to approximately $353 per year.

Since 1961 the times have been generally regarded as prosperous. Yet during these years the national debt has increased by $60 billion. The Chinese philosopher Confucius counseled many centuries ago: When prosperity comes, do not use all of it. But our federal government has used it all and a great deal more.

The national debt now stands at over $365 billion, or a billion dollars for every day in the year. You could say with a fair degree of accuracy that this means every child born in the United States this year starts life owing $1,825. That is his share of the present national debt. HLH

CRACKING LA COSA NOSTRA:

Washington, D.C.: — Intelligence sources by tradition and profession are as tight-lipped as an uncaught clam. Especially when they are admonished by the highest Justice Dept. sources -- as they have been in the past few days -- not to talk to the "press." So, to keep the faith, the following must be reported as "coincidence."

Federal crime - fighting agencies have learned that in one Midwestern city the crime combine's "borgatas" (syndicates) control or have infiltrated 89 businesses worth $800 million.

At the same time it is learned that the Justice Dept.'s Criminal Division now is set to launch a special anticrime strike force in Cleveland early in November. This will be followed by another special coordinated team in St. Louis early next year. Then a force in Los Angeles in midyear. Finally a new team will begin operating in New Orleans by next year's end.

"Cleveland's rotten," says one sophisticated federal Mafia specialist. "It's all there, terrorizing of unions, infiltrating of legitimate business, looting of pension funds, juke box operation and the usual gambling, narcotics, high finance reaching from Cleveland east to Switzerland and west to Los Angeles via the southwest. We pick Cleveland because we work on a simple priority: where is the organized crime problem most intense and where is the least being done about it."

Coincidentally, Cleveland is one city which has intrigued President Nixon since Dec. 19, 1958, when as vice president he handled some investigative documents involving the Teamsters.

When the four new special anticrime strike forces are secretly operative there will be coordinated probes in 13 cities. And they'll be swinging -- as is the Justice Dept. these days under Atty. Gen. John Mitchell. His Ass't. "A. G." Will R. Wilson, head of the Criminal Division is almost constantly on the road now -- riding the circuit to oversee the current Mafia investigations. No more absentee crusades.

Last week, Mr. Wilson was in Chicago to which he flew from a sealed door anti- Cosa Nostra conference in New York. This latter gathering was called by the experimental special Anti- Crime Strike Froce Council. This is the first -- and the only -- operation of its kind. When it met last, there were 17 members -- ranging from local district attorneys to J. Edgar Hoover and Will Wilson (actually the White House's own gadfly). When the Council met secretly on the 41st floor of the big Federal Building in Manhattan there were 19 crack crime fighters. The two new starters were the Superintendent of New York State Police and the Chief of the Federal Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs.

Their technique is fascinating and it may work if the jealousies between the state, local and country officials can be smothered. If this integrated federal - state- county and municipal force can crack the five Cosa Nostra borgatas in New York-- the biggest of which is Carlo Gambino's combine covering the waterfront and hundreds of millions of dollars worth of real estate -- then strike forces will be turned into expanded councils across the land.

For a day and a half, beginning on the morning of Sept. 23, the New York Joint Strike Force Council heard special committee reports. They read like movie scripts -- millions of dollars being hijacked; huge sums being made from use of forged and stolen credit cards; Mafia muscle still moving in on frightened local union or setting up fake locals; cracking of suburban gambling rings which mulct the housewives' purses (one ring averaged some $70 million a year).

One one set of experts was missing -- the labor specialists.

The Congress has refused to appropriate a meagre $2 million for field men to work with the strike forces and the council.

Every other section and division has gotten its appropriation. The Post Office, for example, has been given money for an additional 150 postal inspectors. But not the Labor Dept.'s Bureau of Labor-Management Reports.

Why? Who's been pressuring the Congressional appropriations committees? Why hasn't the Senate Labor Committee subcommittee on appropriations put back into the bill the $2 million denied the Labor Dept. by the House committee? This gives the mob a field day in an area as vital as any other.

Why doesn't some one answer? If there's going to be a crusade, let there be a crusade.

Ann Landers

Husband Skips Around, And Forgot To Return?

Dear Ann Landers: This might be the strangest letter you've ever received. I can't sign it because I may be in trouble with the law.

My husband drank a lot and ran around with women. I don't believe in divorce and we had children who had to be considered. Three years ago my husband disappeared. He had done this before and always turned up in another town. The excuse was the same. He got drunk and didn't know where he was or what he was doing. After he sobered up it took him another few days to work up the courage to come home and face me. I thought this was another one of those episodes. But after two weeks I got scared and called the police.

The next day they found my husband's wallet on the bank of a river. They dredged the river but couldn't find the body. I called the minister the following week and we had a dignified memorial service. The insurance company sent a check and I moved to a better apartment. These last three years have been very peaceful and happy ones for me and the children.

Yesterday I was looking at a baseball game on TV and I could swear I saw my husband in the crowd at Fenway Park in Boston. He was with a nice looking woman and they were laughing and drinking pop.

Should I notify the police? What about the insurance money? Most of it has been spent. Am I in trouble? Please advise me.--Shaken

Dear Shaken: Call the police and tell them. There's a good chance you saw a man who resembled your husband. The insurance company should be notified, too.

You have done nothing wrong, so relax. If there was an error, it was not yours

Dear Ann Landers: My boyfriend is leaving for the service in a few weeks. He gave me his high school ring and told me we should consider ourselves engaged. I asked what that meant and he said, "It means you will wait for me and not go with anyone else when I am gone."

My parents are very much against the whole thing. They say I should not be tied down---that I am too young to make a decision as big as this. I am 17, Ann, and very mature for my age.

When I told my boyfriend what my parents said, he got mad and yelled, "The least they can do for a guy going to Vietnam is to keep his morale up by letting him know he has something to come home for."

Now it's gotten to be a real hassle between my parents and my boyfriend. I don't know what to do. Please guide me.---Kenton, Ohio

Dear Ken: Your folks have given you good advice. I hope you take it. If it's the real thing, it will survive the separation. A boy who tries to hang onto a girl by appealing to her sense of patriotism exhibits a tremendous lack of confidence. Moreover he is not being fair to her.

Confidential to To Be Or Not To Be---That Is The Question: Take the advice of Justice Louis D. Brandeis, one of the greatest jurists of all time. He said, "The best way to deal with the irresistible is to resist it."

When romantic glances turn to warm embraces is it love or chemistry? Send for the booklet "Love Or Sex And How To Tell The Difference," by Ann Landers. Enclose a long, stamped, self-addressed, envelope and 35 cents in coin with your request.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

FOR BETTER HEALTH, MUCH MORE VITAMIN C

Average daily intake of vitamin C, even in the U. S. and other affluent countries, is nowhere nearly enough, according to the University of California chemistry professor.

Ascorbic acid -- contained in vitamin C -- promotes vigor and increased protection against infectious disease. A 10-fold increase in daily intake, says Linus Pauling, PhD, could mean a 10 per cent improvement in mental and physical well-being.

Her Music Is Out of This World

By TOM CULLEN
NEA European Correspondent

LONDON—(N E A)—"I'm still afraid to talk to Beethoven, but Liszt is different—I feel I can talk freely with him."

Mrs. Rosemary Brown, a widow in her 40s, talks about the great composers as though they are next-door neighbors who are in the habit of dropping in for tea. And such very nearly is the case.

Mrs. Brown claims that Beethoven and Liszt have been appearing to her regularly for the past five years and have been dictating new compositions, which she takes down on the piano. Brahms, Bach, Schumann, Debussy and Rachmaninoff have been appearing to her as well.

Altogether, Mrs. Brown, a pleasant woman with chestnut hair, has noted down quite a volume of ghost compositions, ranging from Rachmaninoff piano-duets to Chopin fantasy-impromptus, none of which has ever been heard before. And there is much more music to come, she says.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Brown's revelations have created something of a furor here in Britain. She has been the subject of three television documentaries and a long-playing record of some of the compositions she has rescued from the spirit world is about to be issued.

What makes Rosemary Brown's story so remarkable is that she has no special talent as a musician and has had almost no musical training. She has not even heard very much classical music.

In fact, she and her late husband, who was ill during most of their married life, were so poor that they could not even afford a radio or a record-player, let alone go to concerts. When her husband died in 1961, Mrs. Brown had to sling hash in a school cafeteria in order to support her two children.

Today she lives in a decaying flat in southwest London. The ivory keys on the upright piano which belonged to her grandmother are yellow, like discolored teeth. On top of the piano are small plaster busts of her idols—Wagner, Schubert, and Liszt.

She says she does not need to go into a trance in order to receive music from the dead. It can come to her while she is out shopping. Recently she was being interviewed by the BBC when Liszt dropped in and dictated 20 bars of music right in the midst of the recording session.

By now the great composers have become so familiar to Mrs. Brown that she sometimes scolds them when they dictate too fast, or the music is unclear. Recently she became quite exasperated with Beethoven. "Beethoven was dictating to me and everything was going quite smoothly when suddenly he stopped," she explains. "They've got to learn how to sustain concentration," she says with just a trace of annoyance in her voice.

From earliest childhood Mrs. Brown appears to have been endowed with extra-sensory perception. As a girl of 7, she heard heavenly music in her mind, and "an elderly man with long flowing white hair" whom she now identifies as Liszt appeared to her and told her that he would one day dictate beautiful music to her.

It took a couple of broken ribs to make Liszt's prophecy come true. Mrs. Brown slipped and broke her ribs in March, 1964, while working in the school cafeteria. "I couldn't do any housework because of my accident, so my mind turned to the piano, which I hadn't touched for 12 years. My playing was so rusty that it was like starting all over again," she recalls. It was then that Liszt appeared to her consciousness and dictated 12 relatively simple pieces of music. Liszt, in turn, introduced Chopin, and soon Mrs. Brown had about a dozen composers all clamoring to break through the sound barrier and to have their works heard by the waiting world.

What does her 12-year-old son think of the music that is coming from the spirit world? Mrs. Brown shrugs. "He prefers the Beatles."

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

"SINUS TROUBLE" BEST DIAGNOSED BY PHYSICIAN

About 90 per cent of the time the person who complains of "sinus trouble" is really suffering from a combination of stuffed nose and tension headache, an Iowa physician reports. Reaction to emotional stress may also account for some nose trouble. "Depressed patients are especially prone to excessive nasal and eye discharges," another physician notes.

To help avoid a true sinus infection, physicians advise treating a stuffy nose. A decongestant nasal spray such as Neo-Synephrine or NTZ helps. So do cold-mist or steam vapor. Other medically approved suggestions: Stop smoking. Make sure home and office are adequately humidified. If you swim, especially in chlorinated water, be sure to exhale through the nose and inhale through the mouth. Never blow your nose hard. Leave both nostrils open when you blow your nose.

Big 8 Teams Display Power

Big eight football teams put on their biggest display of power in history Saturday, chalking up a record seven victories and lending credence to the contention f some that the conference may now be America's strongest.

"It was a great day for the Big Eight, particularly in the light of the high caliber of nonconference competition," Commissioner Wayne Duke said. "I hope there will be many more like it."

Conference teams now stand 11-5 this season against outside foes, but some of the biggest prestige battles are yet to come.

Penn State invades Manhattan, Kan., Saturday. Should the Kansas State Wildcats, whose claws are sharper than ever, upset the second-ranked Nittany Lions the fans may enshrine Coach Vince Gibson.

Missouri goes to Michigan Saturday for another prestige battle, while the last of the big ones will be Oct. 11 at Dallas when Oklahoma challenges powerful Texas.

Only Colorado stumbled last Saturday. The Buffaloes bowed to Penn State, 28-3, although they had one more first down and only five fewer yards than the Lions. Four pass interceptions and a long kickoff return spoiled the Buffs' bid.

Elsewhere, Oklahoma mauled Pittsburgh, 37-8; Missouri thrashed Illinois, 37-6; Kansas State belted Arizona, 42-27; Oklahoma State upset Houston, 24-18, and Nebraska, Kansas and Iowa State all recorded shutouts.

The Cornhuskers blanked Texas A&M, 14-0, the Jayhawks trimmed Syracuse, 13-0, and the Cyclones downed Brigham Young, 10-0.

Besides K-State-Penn State and Missouri-Michigan, Saturday's schedule has Nebraska at Minnesota, Iowa State at Illinois, Indiana at Colorado, Kansas at New Mexico and Texas Tech at Oklahoma State.

Pittsburgh Coach Carl DePasqua called Oklahoma's sophomore quarterback, Jack Mildren, "the most exceptional sophomore I've ever seen since I've been coaching." He had a reason. Mildren ran for 135 yards, passed for 71 more and scored twice to lead Oklahoma's rout of the Panthers. Steve Owens, although hurting with a pulled muscle, gained 104 yards, scored three times and now has 40 touchdowns in his career.

Mike Montgomery broke a 64-yard touchdown run to launch K-State's victory and later scored on a 16-yard pass from Lynn Dickey.

Oklahoma State, capitalizing on Houston errors, built a 24-0 lead and stood off a Cougar rally. Bob Cutburth was the Cowboy hero, throwing two touchdown passes and scoring once himself.

Kansas scored early on Willie Amison's 16-yard bolt, then had to get a 56-yard pass interception return by jjohn Mears to subdue Syracuse.

Tony Washington's 51-yard punt return was the big play for Iowa State.

"This was a big game for us," Missouri Coach Dan Devine said. "Illinois is just getting to be a big game. We can't stand any nore of them. We've got enough big games now."

jthe Tigers left no doubt from start to finish who was superior. Moore bolted 58 yards the first time Missouri had the ball for a touchdown and there was no letup.

Terry McMillan passed 42 yards to Mel Gray and jjerry Boyd raced 47 yards with a pass interception for the other big Tiger plays before 48,740 fans in Busch Stadium at St. Louis.

Moore came within 27 yards of the Missouri single-game rushing record, held by Harry Ice who got 218 against Kansas in 1941.

Kansas fluffed some early scoring opportunities, then lost the game's momentum and had to fight off Syracuse's comeback bids in the second half. Mears put it away with 4:49 to go on his interception run of a pass deflected by EKMERY Hicks.

"I'm just very happy we won," Coach Pepper Rodgers said. "I'd have been very happy with 6-0. Our defense got in more good licks in this game than any since I've been at Kansas."

Besides Montgomery's flashy running, Dickey hit Charlie Collins on a 53-yard pass to set up a crucial K-State touchdown late in the first half for a 28-13 lead. The Wildcat defense held Arizona to minus 13 yards rushing.

MIKE CARROLL (66) takes out Illini linebacker Bruce Erb and paves the way for Joe Moore's (45) first quarter touchdown during Saturday's Mizzou- Illini battle at Busch Memorial Stadium in St. Louis. The fighting Tigers finished the day with a 37-6 victory and Moore with 191 yards rushing, 27 yards shy of the Missouri Single-game rushing record held by Harry Ice who got 218 against Kansas in 1941.

Hart Leads Comeback

Hart, consigned to the bench since the second game of the exhibition season because of the broken finger on his throwing hand, marked is regular season debut by driving the Cardinals 71 yards to a fourth quarter touchdown and a 20-17 victory over the Bears Sunday.

The drive, capped by Willis Crenshaw's two - yard plunge, wiped out Bears quarterback Jack Concannon's come-frombehind effort following two costly Chicago mistakes.

"Some of the plays were sent in from the bench," Hart said about the final drive," but we all had the same thinking. We've been around the coaches long enough to know what they're thinking.

"I don't know as I was that fired up, but the team was. We knew we had to get it there, because if we'd stalled it would have been all over."

At times it looked all over for each team. But something always happened to chance the way things looked. Even after the Cardinals took the three-point lead, jchicago cane back to try a field goal that would have tied the game. But Mac Percival's last-second try was wide by a couple of yards.

Concannon had fired touchdown passes to Dick Gordon in the second and third periods to overcome a 13-point deficit. Percival had added a field goal in the 10point third period to make it 17-13.

It was Chicago mistakes, though, that had given the Cardinals the quick lead. The first Cardinal touchdown came on a 15-yard Charley Johnson to John Gilliam pass after Chuck Walker retrieved a Gale Skayers fumble.

The second was a real weirdy. The Bears had he ball at the St. Louis 46 yard line when suddenly Concannon turned from center Mike Pyle and tried to signal time out. Pyle snapped the ball with his usual zest and it soared about 30 feet into the air. Linebacker Larry Stallings grabbed it on the run and scored a 62-yard touchdown to give he Cardinals the temporary lead.

"Concann n tried to call time because there was a mixup," Stallings said from his view of the proceedings. "Sayers raised up and said, 'Wait, there's a mistake." Concannon stepped back to say time and as he said it, the center snapped the ball.

"It happened to Johnny Unitas agains us a few years ago and Joe Fortunato picked it off," Pyle recalled. "I think it was on the 10 yard line and he went in to score."

SEMO Indians Remain Unbeaten

By DAN SPEARS
STAFF WRITER

CAPE GIRARDEAU – Defeating Delta State College of Cleveland, Mississippi, only 7-6, in the curtain raiser a week ago possibly made the Southeast Missouri State Indians stop and wonder where the future lay in the upcoming season. Scoring their second play from scrimmage, the College tribe rebounded gracefully and downed the visiting Jacksonville, Ala., State Universities Gamecocks here Saturday night 19-13, for their second victory.

Holding the MIAA conference title for the past two seasons, Coach Tom Thrower commented, "The only possible reason they could not expect to do well this year is because they play a real tough schedule." SeMo did not play Jacksonville last season, but the two teams have met five times during the 60's with the Indians winning three.

After last weeks game with Delta State, Thrower was pretty optimistic about his defense. "Anytime you hold Delta to two field goals, you've got to be doing something right." Only Saturday night the floor liked to have given in with him late in the second half, as he held a 13-0 halftime edge which looked to be pretty insured at the time.

Using the first minute of play trying to move the ball upfield against the tribe's defensive wall, the Gamecocks were pressured into punting. Failing to gain yardage on their first play through the line, Indian quarterback, Greg Schroeder, came out of the huddle and heaved a 55 yard touchdown pass to college transfer running back, Al Homes. Bruce Nall came in and did the kicking duties to boost Cape into an early 7-0 lead. Taking off from there, the Indians defense picked up where they left off last week holding Jacksonville to relatively little yardage on the ground. After a series of second quarter miscues and an attempted fieldgoal by the host, Schroeder and Sophomore, Art Miller, were successful in putting six more points on the board as Miller skirted in for a 2 yards TD. Nall's try for the PAT was off to the right and the Indians went in at the intermission hosting a 13-0 lead.

The Indians kicked off at the half and the ball was taken by the gamecocks, Bubba Long and returned to his 20 yard line before fumbling and letting the Cape defense take possession. Holmes broke out of the SEMo ranks for the first play going eight yards before getting dropped. Miller broke around end with 13:58 remaining in the quarter for his second score of the evening. The try for the conversion by Nall was blocked by Jacksonville's, Bruce Nichols.

Leading 19-0, the SeMo let up on the never ending surge that the Gamecocks were about to unleash. Jim Weaver broke loose off tackle and sprinted 55 yards for the visitors first score with 3:51 remaining in the third period. Driving against the tiring defense of the Indians throughout the final quarter, senior signal caller Doc Lett was able to move his team down the field once again play by play and push Long over for a 2 yard plunge and the Jacksonville's final score of the night. With 19 seconds left to play the Cocks make their last bid for the game as tribesman, Leslie Young intercepted a Lett pass on their own 40 yard line and let the clock run out, winning 19-13.

Higher Taxes Would Hurt Home Buyers

JEFFERSON CITY-The higher tax rate proposed for savings and loan associations would hurt home buyers and aggrevate the nation's growing housing crisis, according to Wendell L. Evans, Jr., executive vice-president of the Missouri Savings and Loan League.

"Inflation is driving home prices out of reach, there's a housing shortage and mortgage money for single-family dwellings is drying up," Evans said.

"An increase in our taxes would strike a further blow at home ownership at a time when it needs all the help it can get."

The House of Representatives has voted to cut the bad devt allowance of savings associations in half over a ten-year period. In effect, this would double the federal tax rate for these institutions.

Hearings on the measure, a section of an omnibus tax reform bill, are now being held by the Senate Finance Committee.

"The current inflation has lured most other lenders from the home financing field," he went on.

"An increase in our taxes would further reduce the dwindling supply of mortgage money available for home purchases."

Cutting the bad devt allowance for associations, Evans continued, would also erode their loss reserve position and make them more vulnerable to economic turndowns. To protect their savers, he said associations might then have to begin seeking short-term investments not tied to home ownership.

"Another could be the massive direct intervention of the federal government into direct home lending, hardly a way to reduce the general tax burden."

Evans noted that as a result of a war-bred inflation and spiralling interest rates, the growth of savings associations has slowed appreciably in recent years. Their ability to compete for savings has been blunted by the long-term nature of their loans, which include many outstanding mortgages made when interest rates were far below the current market.

"Ultimately, if our institutions are not allowed to thrive, it is the home buyer who must pay," Evans concluded.

"Congress has set an ambitious national housing goal of 2,600,000 new units annually. At a time when inadequate housing is in the offing, it doesn't make sense to further curb home ownership through higher federal taxation."

Tally Clerk Won't Say If Quit or Fired

WARRENSBURG, Mo. (AP)— Wally Alexander, who served as tally clerk for the Missouri House in Jefferson City until a new clerk appeared Thursday, won't say if he resigned or was fired.

"I have nothing to say," he said.

Alexander had the job of pushing the button and turning the key that recorded the House vote on the state income tax increase bill which passed by the bare vote needed, 82 to 76.

Two electric tally boards on the walls of the House showed 79 for the bill and 77 against, three short of the required majority.

Clayton Attorney Heads State Bar

KANSAS CITY — A Clayton attorney, Edgar G. Boedeker Wednesday was elected president of The Missouri Bar at the organization's 25th annual meeting. He succeeds Martin J. Purcell of Kansas City.

A native of St. Louis, Boedeker is a graduate of the St. Louis University school of law. He was admitted to the bar in 1938 and during World War II served on the staff of the judge advocate general. From 1947 to 1950 he was a member of the Missouri house of representatives. He is a past president of the St. Louis County Bar association and is city attorney of Clayton.

Boedeker was first elected to the board of governors in 1962. In 1967 he was elected vice president of the organization and in 1968 was named president- elect. He took office at the conclusion of the annual meeting Friday.

A Cape Girardeau attorney, Jack L. Oliver, was named president- elect. Oliver's father and law partner, Allan Laws Oliver, served as president of Tue Missouri Bar Association, the forerunner of the present organization, in 1943-44. The president- elect, who has been a member of the board of governors since 1964, last year served as vice president.

Hearnes Praises Legislators for Passing Tax Bill

"I personally appreciate what I believe to be the very honest and courageous action on the part of the representatives and senators who were willing to face up to the problems facing the state of Missouri," he told a news conference.

Even with the estimated $102.6 million in new revenue provided, he said the 1970-71 budget would be very tight. The governor has said $110 million would be needed to run the state government for that fiscal year starting next July 1.

Robinson Says State May Tap Bank Funds Heavily

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Missouri Treasurer William E. Robinson was quoted Thursday as saying the state may withdraw about $138 million from state banks to meet an impending financial crisis.

He was quoted as not speaking out earlier because the Legislature was considering a bill to increase income taxes. The bill passed Thursday.

Television Station WDAF said Robinson told newsmen the withdrawals—to meet state expenses would start Nov. 1 and would all be used up by Dec. 1.

Robinson also was quoted as saying the state still would face money problems if and when the income taxes are raised because "it is using this year's revenues to pay last year's bills."

But John C. Vaughn, comptroller and budget director, said withdrawals of state funds to meet expenditures is not unusual.

"We are in good shape this fiscal year," Vaughn said. "The record shows as of Aug. 31 Missouri had $56.8 million in general revenue. That is aside from $93 million set aside for allotment to state aid to schools in September. Next June 30, we will have a surplus of $21 million.

Unidentified Woman To State Hospital

MORLEY — A woman found wandering in a field here Sunday, in apparent daze, has been placed in Farmington State Hospital No. 4 until she can be identified.

Scott County Sheriff's deputies took the woman to the state mental hospital Wednesday after trying with no success to learn her name and background.

Deputies said she appeared to be about 23-24 years old, and when fould was wearing clean clothing though a bit wrinkled. Officers said they did not find any signs of a struggle from her appearance. One deputy said she looked like a young woman who had been out for a long walk.

The woman was being held in protective custody in Benton before being placed in the state hospital. Authorities in Benton said she could not remember who she is or where she was from.

Tuesday the woman gave officers the name of a woman who had been discharged from the Farmington hospital. The mother of the former patient was contacted and after viewing the woman said it was not her daughter.

Officers said before being taken to the Farmington hospital the woman appeared fairly coherent, but could answer questions only with a "I don't know, or I can't remember."

The woman is described as 5 feet tall, 90 pounds, light, short, brown hair, hazel eyes. She was wearing a plaid blouse, black slacks, black raincoat and black tennis shoes.

Buffalo Herd Draws Crowds To Kentucky

GOLDEN POND, Ky. - Land Between the Lakes officials estimated that more than 3,000 people visited the buffalo range Sunday, the Tennessee Valley Authority announced today. A Land Between the Lakes patrolman counted 177 cars parked alongside the range in a one- hour check Sunday afternoon.

The herd of 20 buffalo, which were shipped here from Theodore Roosevelt National Memorial Park near Medora, N.D. arrived at their home near the former site of Model, Tennessee, Sept. 19.

One of the buffalo, a yearling bull, was injured and died shortly after arriving. The remaining 19 animals, ranging from one to two years of age, are in excellent health and appear to like the surroundings of their new range.

The buffalo, once native to Tennessee and Kentucky, are located alongside The Trace (Tennessee 49- Kentucky 453), the major north- southhighway through Land Between the Lakes. The big, 100- acre pasture can easily be expanded to accommodate any increase in he size of the herd.

Visitors who would like to see the buffalo should plan to arrive in the morning or later afternoon. The buffalo prefer the cool shade of the forested portion of the pasture during midday. To reach the buffalo range from Tennessee, turn north off U.S. 79 onto Tennessee 49 and drive approximately 12 miles; from Kentucky turn south off U.S. 68 onto Kentucky 453, and it's approximately 14 miles to the range. Visitors entering Land Between the Lakes from across the Scott Fitzhugh Bridge on U.S. 79 can also reach the range by turning left onto the Fort Henry- Blue Spring Road which leads to The Trace.

Piney Campground, just a few miles south of the buffalo range along the Kentucky Lake shoreline, will remain open throughout the year. All of the tent and trailer sites in Piney have electrical outlets, and heated central service buildings are available.

Ozark Air Lines Adds Magazine

ST. LOUIS — Ozark Air Lines introduced a new in-flight magazine aboard all aircraft this month. The go-getter, as it is named, will be printed quarterly for seat pocket distribution, and is edited for the pleasure of Ozark passengers.

As noted in the first issue in an introductory letter from Thomas L. Grace, Ozark president, each magazine will explore the cities Ozark serves, "delving into their histories, pointing out unusual places to visit while you're there, and presenting some interesting and off- beat sidelights."

In addition, each issue will carry other articles of a miscellaneous nature that it is felt will be interesting to the traveling public. A regular Welcome Aboard, column will include information about Ozark's service, and hints to the passenger for his best use of Ozark's services.

Advertising will be carried each quarter, and the total number of pages will be 30 or more. Press run on the inaugural issue was 25,000. The next Go-Getter Magazine will be distributed starting in November.

Senators Ask Flow Of Shoes Be Curbed

WASHINGTON - Missouri's U. S. Senators Stuart Symington (D) and Thomas F. Eagleton (D) are among 73 Senators who have appealed to President Nixon for Administration action in curbing the flow of foreign made shoes into the United States.

The list was released here recently by Senator Margaret Chase Smith (R-Maine), during a Senate floor speech.

In their petition to the president, the 73 senators appealed for U. S. negotiations to begin with principal foreign supplying nations. Aim of the talks would be to establish voluntary shoe import limitations. Senator Smith said the limitations are needed so that "both now and in the future the shoe manufacturing industry of the United States may continue as a healthy and viable segment of our economy."

The Senators represent 43 out of the 50 states.

Approximately 92 shoe plants in Missouri produced 54.9 million pairs of shoes last year valued at over $327 million, Senators Symington and Eagleton pointed out.

MOORE'S MISSOURI CO.

Tony Heckemeyer Reports

This information appears in the paper to answer many questions I know are in everyone's minds because of my many discussions with various interested parties in the last few weeks. The Legislature has just passed a bill increasing the amount of income tax the state of Missouri will collect.

I'm sure many of you do not realize the County of Scott receives more money back from the state in varied assistance programs than it puts in. So as the total amount collected is increased, the amount will receive in this County will proportionately increase with it.

Secondly the Schools must be and will be financed, and if the state does not increase with income tax or sales tax, their share of the cost of education up to at least 50 percent. The property owner will pay the bulk of the increase that will be required in the next few years to maintain our schools. Therefore, any property owners must realize this tax bill will protect property owners interested in our County, and I might add here that they must be protected since we are at a very critical point. Taxation is reaching a level which will actually discourage the individuals from owning property. I repeat the money must come from the state and from the property owner to maintain our schools in this state.

Thirdly, you will find included with this report a breakdown of the tax schedule included in the new bill. If you will read this carefully, I am sure you will see this tax bill in an entirely new light.

You will note that a man and his wife who have three dependents will actually pay less than they did last year, until they make $10,000 in taxable income, at which time they will get an increase of $6.25 in their taxes. Be carefully reading the schedule enclosed you will see that for our County, far more individual taxes will be lowered than will be raised. In fact, those least able to pay will find considerable benefits from this tax bill. I would like to add that this schedule I have enclosed is high because of an amendment placed on the bill in the last few hours of Legilation, which will allow a person who wishes not to use the 10 percent standard deduction to itemize his deductions and deduct off his Social Security or Railroad pension, this will further reduce the income from the bill five million dollars.

If you have further questions concerning this tax bill, I am completely at your disposal to explain them. I would greatly appreciate a chance to speak to your group or organization or to you individually on the telephone.

So much wrong information has been put out that is so ridiculous, I feel you need to know the true facts.

The mandrake plant is supposed to shriek when pulled out of the ground, according to folklore.

Seven Held In Fire Probe

CARUTHERSVILLE, MO. - Seven youths have been arrested in connection with a number of fires which raged through vacant homes in a largely Negro section of Caruthersville Monday night.

Mayor B. F. Rogers said charges would be filed against the youths, all Negroes, who range in age from 14 to 18. The boys were taken into custody after another fire Tuesday night.

The mayor said the fires appeared to be vandalism and had no evident racial connections. He indicated there may be more arrests.

After the fires started, more than 20 highway patrolmen were assigned to duty in Caruthersville.

Ryan Bids Low on School

DONIPHAN - Members of the Doniphan R-1 School District Board of Education, last night accepted the low bid of the Ryan Construction Company, Sikeston, for construction of the first of two units of their new high school building.

The Ryan firm's bid of $317,023 was the apparent low bid with five area contractors bidding on the structure. Others bidding included the Cox Lumber Company, Piggott, Ark.; Smith & Livingston Construction Company, Poplar Bluff; Brown Construction Company, Dexter, and the J. W. Githens Construction Company, Poplar Bluff.

Bids were opened in the presence of the board of education and school administrators with Paul E. Shawan representing the Poplar Bluff architectural firm of Drew & Jablonsky. Shawan said all five bids were within the school district budget for the project.

This is the first of two projects under which the complete high school comples will be built.

The unit will include classrooms, library, kitchen and cafeteria, an administrative suite and all necessary utilities. It was noted the bid price represents a cost of approximately $12 per square foot.

Plans call for a one-story, fire-resistant structure of steel and masonry construction. Extras include carpeting in the library and administrative areas. A hot water heating system is planned with provisions for future air conditioning.

The building will be constructed on a site adjoining the present Doniphan Junior High School. Funds for the capital improvements were voted by residents of the Doniphan R-1 School District in May, 1969, when the issue carried by a 92 per cent majority.

Steel Building Frames Rise on Noranda

With completion of a railroad spur into the plant, heavy construction material is being delivered to the site in large quantities, and steel is going up rapidly on several major buildings. In addition to steel erection, work continues on utilities, building founcations, and erection of two large alumnina storage silos.

Work has also begun on dock facilities for unloading of plant raw materials from barges on the river.

At the reduction plant site to date over 180,000 cubic yards of earth have been excavated, nearly 443,000 tons of controlled structural fill have been placed for roads and foundations, and nearly 13,000 cubic yards of concrete have been placed in foundations and other structures

The Electrical Power Plant, being built adjacent to the Noranda Plant for the City of New Madrid, is still in the early stages of construction, but it is showing good progress. A pile test program has been completed; controlled fill for roads, railroads, and buildings is being placed; laying of railroad tracks into the site has started; and construction of the first of the plant building has begun.

At present, nearly 850 construction workers are employed on the two sites.

The reduction plant, is being designed and built by Kaiser Engineers of Oakland, California. The power plant is being designed by Burns & McDonnell Engineering Company of Kansas City, and built by Kaiser Engineers, Inc.

State Judges Dexter in Betterment Contest

DEXTER - Three state "judges" were in Dexter Wednesday morning looking at Dexter as a possible winner of the 1969 Community Betterment Award to be announced Oct. 14.

The three judges were William Hall, Industrial Development Specialist, Sedalia; Lewis Atherton, Industrial Dyveloper, Kansas City Power and Light Company; and James W. Stephens, vice-president, Missouri Public Service Company.

They were judging Dexter as a part of the continuing community betterment program of Missouri. Various categories of judging are established, a comprehensive scrapbook is submitted, and the finalists are judged by an independent team of experts.

The trio arrived in Dexter at 8:45 a.m. Wednesday, greeted by John Miller, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Community Betterment committee; Mayor Willis Conner; Joe Weber, leader in the parking lot drive just completed; Percy Clippard, chairman of the Chamber's Industrial committee; Jim Smith, president of the Chamber of Commerce; Gary Dowdy, member of the parking lot committee: Frank Schneider, a member of the Dexter Memorial Hospital board and the parking lot committee; Yewell Lawrence, member of the Industrial committee; and 28 members of the youth For Community Beterment.

After brief introductions at the airport, the motorcade traveled in the City Administration Building, where three spearate briefings on community projects were given.

Barney Miller, Dexter newspaper publisher, outlined the community awareness portion of the year's efforts. Miller stressed the importance of "knowing what is wrong, then setting out a plan of action to solve the problem. I think Dexter has done this."

Joe Weber, a leader in the development of three off-street parking lots for downtown Dexter, outlined his group's work in community betterment. Weber pointed out that the lost will "pay for themselves" through parking meters, and that outstandings support from throughout the community, in the form of contributions, helped make the lots of reality.

Harold Howells, spokesman for the Youth for Community Betterment (YCB) outlined his group's activities for the juges. The youth group is the third facet of Dexter's betterment efforts that is being judged. The high school student told the judges of the group's efforts in securing a youth center, and told the successful fund raising dinner they held, with the support of Senator Thomas Eagleton.

Following the briefings, the motorcade once again got underway, this time for a whirlwind tour of Dexter.

The group saw the parking lots under construction as well as a large portion of the business district and industrial areas. They stopped at the Fram Corporation site, where Art Anderson, plant superintendent took them on a tour.

The results of the judging will be known Oct. 14.

Missouri Masons To Open Assembly

About 1,500 representatives of these lodges during their annual communication will honor their chief executive officer, Grand Master Elvis A. Mooney of Bloomfield at a dinner Sunday night at the Sheraton-Jefferson Hotel.

Speaker will be Circuit Judge J. Morgan Donelson of Princeton, president of the board directing the operation of the Masonic Home of Missouri in St. Louis, and a Grand Lodge elective officer.

The Grand Lodge will open at 10 a.m. Monday in the Scottish Rite Cathedral, 3633 Lindell bl., and a Masonic Youth Night program at 8 p.m. in the auditorium will feature Job's Daughters, Rainbow Girls, DeMolay, and children of the Masonic Home entertaining delegates.

Ignorance of Dance Ban No Defense

THE CASE OF THE DANCING SPOUSES
By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Being very considerate, Norton decided to take his hard-working wife out to dinner. The restaurant chosen was quiet and quaint and featured a small combo for dancing. Before Norton could spin his wife around the floor even once, however, they were both waltzed off to jail and charged with violating a law that made it a crime to engage in dancing on Sunday.

"Somebody's off his cotton-picking mink," funed Norton when he was finally brought before the judge. "A man can't be made a criminal from dancing with his own wife, not even on Sunday. And if there is such a stupid law, I can't be convicted of violating it since I didn't know about it and because it's too vague to be valid prohibited. When my wife and I dance we couldn't be more sedate if we were two bottles of sleeping pills."

IF YOUR WERE THE JUDGE'would you find the dancing spouses guilty of breaking the law and convict them?

This is how the judge rules: YES! The judge held taht the law was not too vague since dancing has been difined as a form of exercise or amusement in which one or more persons make a series of more or less graceful movements or steps in accord with music, which was precisely what Norton and his wife were doing at the time of their arrest.

Their unawareness of the prohibition against Sunday dancing was no defense. While most crimes require an intent to break the law, concluded the judge, some do not. The legislature did not make knowledge of the law, or any intent to violate it, a prerequisite for conviction under it.

SOUTH AFRICAN MEN HAPPY

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Greater sexual freedom for women through use of the contraceptive pill is welcomed by their husbands in South Africa, a Johannesburg gynaecologist said. He was commenting on a report that by Dr. Robert Kistner, a Harvard University gynaecologist, that many American men are becoming impotent because the pill has made their wives "sexually aggressive." "I can't see that happening here," said the South African doctor.

Peterson Returns as Cairo Chief

Mayor A. B. (Pete) Thomas, who was elected by the council to succeed Lee Stenzel, who resigned, announced the appointment.

Petersen had resigned after a confrontation between blacks and police in which Petersen said arms had been displayed. He said then this indicated citizens of the community were taking the law into their own hands and that blood would be shed.

"People of Cairo of all segments have indicated to me they felt more secure when the police force was under his guidance," Thomas said in his announcement of Petersen's appointment. Thomas said police also had expressed a desire to have Petersen back as a leader. Thomas said Petersen was competent and professional.

Stenzel, the city's corporation counsel, and another commissioner all had resigned after Stenzel had agreed in a federal court hearing in Danville to a plan to limit picketing in a black boycott of white merchants.

Stenzel said he had come under criticism in the white community because of his agreement to the plan.

The case came to federal court under a suit by the United Front of Cairo, with mostly black members, attacking a Cairo ordinance forbidding picketing and parades. The court later declared the ordinance invalid.

The Prayer from The Upper Room

He has sent me to bind up the brokenhearted,...to give them a garland instead of ashes. (Isaiah 61:1,3, RSV)

PRAYER: We thank Thee, eternal God, that through the redeeming grace of Jesus, blots can be made to contribute to beauty of character. We praise Thee for the love that judges a life not by its blunders, but by its entirety. Help us in turn to a place a garland of understanding around the mistakes of others, knowing how easy it is to err. In the name of Christ. Amen.

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The Kentucky Arts Commission supported 74 performances of symphonic, choral and chamber music, opera and ballet in various communities last year.

Mopac Promises Improvements

DEXTER - Mayor Willis Conner reported Wednesday that he once again has contactd officials of the Missouri Pacific Railroad, to complain about the rough rail-street crossing in Dexter.

Earlier this year, company officials had promised the city that new crossings would be installed "as soon as possible."

As of this week, the Mayor had heard nothing more from the railway, and called them again.

Mayor Conner was assured, by telephone, that the special timbers for the crossings are being loaded this week, and are on their way to Dexter. Company officials told him that they should arrive "in two or three weeks."

Once the timbers arrive, the Mayor was told, work can begin on the new, and smoother, crossings.

The crossings have been a source of complaints for several months.

Democratic Party Group Will Meet

CAPE GIRARDEAU — The state commission on Democratic party constitution, by-laws, and party structure will hold its fourth regional meeting Wednesday, at the Colonial Tavern. The hearing, which is open to the public, will begin at 9 a.m.

George M. Burrus, Jefferson City is chairman.

1. What must the Missouri Democratic Party do to meet the requirements for delegate selection mandated by the 1968 Democratic National Convention?

2. What should be the relationship between he Democratic State Committee and the County and City Committees?

3. What new functions can the Party perform to attract interest and enthusiasm?

4. Suggestions for inclusions in the Party Constitution and By-Laws.

The commission will hear testimony from any interested Democrat who wishes to be heard. It is possible that copies of the testimony be submitted before the hearing but impromptu witnesses are welcome.

Those desiring to speak should contact the area coordinator, Bill Stacy, 1832 Georgia, Cape Girardeau, Missouri 63701.

Fire Destroys 19 Bales of Cotton

Owners of the gin said the fire was discovered by a truck driver shortly before 5. A truck from the Poplar Bluff Fire Department went to the scene and was there for two hours.

The fire is believed to have started from a "hot bale" gin officials said. They stated bales may come out of the gin with some fire and may go 24 to 48 hours before it breaks out. The bales were on the loading dock, which is concrete.

Missouri Press News Service

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. — Some forgotten soul once said, "There are two sides to every story," and some Missouri legislators are complaining that their side isn't being told, regarding the current controversy over the recently passed legislative retirement fund increase.

An organization called The Committee for Fair Pensions is circulating petitions over the state, calling for a referendum election next November (1970) to let the people approve or disapprove the retirement plan the legislators set up for themselves.

The legislators, according to Rep. Frank Mickelson (D-Cass County), think new reports on the retirement system are incomplete and don't tell the whole story.

"We've prepared a chart that shows what has been done in the past and what the new law (House Bill 480) will do when it goes into effect October 13," Mickelson and his office neighbor, Rep. Dean Shaver (D—Anderson) said last week.

Mickelson's chart, which goes back to 1957, shows that in 12 years the legislators have increased the amount they pay into the retirement fund from $60 per year to $336 a year. Their annual pension benefits have gone up from $480 per year after eight years service to $1,080 after six years service.

Originally, in 1957, the legislators drew $1500 in salary. They paid $60 per year into the retirement fund. In 1961 the salary was set at $4800 and the legislator's contribution was $192. After six years he was elibible, upon reaching retirement age of 60, to draw an annual pension of $1080.

In 1969 the legislators' new salary of $8400 took effect, and their contribution was $336 per year, but retirement benefits remained at $1080.

The state, which also puts four per cent into the fund, had to make the appropriate increases as salary went up, to put in the same amount as the legislator.

Under the new plan in question, legislators are going to put in twice as much from their salary (from $336 annually to $672), since they have doubled their contribution to the retirement fund from 4 per cent to 8 per cent. The state's contribution will remain at 4 per cent of the legislator's salary. They will receive slightly less than twice as much as before in annual benefits.

Their benefits will go up from a minimum of $1080 to a minimum of $2016 annually, but they will qualify to begin drawing the increased benefits at age 55 instead of age 60.

Mickelson said, "The original plan of 1957 actually paid more, percentage - wise when figured against the amount we invest in the plan. than the new plan will."

Until the new plan takes effect, money which state legislators have set aside for retirement has been put into the general state employees retirement fund, which currently has assets of $61 million.

House Bill 480 takes the retirement money which current legislators have had invested in the state employee retirement fund and puts it into a separate fund just for legislators. Former Missouri representatives and senators, who are not now in office and have money in the state employee fund will have to leave it there rather than having it transferred to the more lucrative legislators' fund. If a former legislator is elected to office at some future date he can then join the new fund and his accrued retirement money, plus the interest it has earned, will be moved over to the legislators' retirement fund.

The new plan does not allow a legislator to draw both salary and retirement pay at the same time if he is serving in office. If a legislator is on retirement and is then re-elected, his retirement is cut off and will be recomputed when he leaves office.

Critics of the new plan say it is unfair because other state employees have to work longer to become eligible for retirement, have a later retirement systems compare: State employees put four per cent of their annual salary into their retirement systems compare: State employees put four per cent of salary into each fund.

To retire, state employees must have had at least 15 years service and be at least 60 years old. Legislators must have had at least six years service and be at least 55 years old.

Upon qualifying for retirement, state employees will receive one and one- fourth per cent of their average compensation multiplied by the number of years service they gave the state. In addition, a legislator serving more than 20 years will receive one per cent of whatever legislators are receiving as compensation at the time for each year over 20 years.

Despite all he facts and figures, the real issue may lie in what Missourians think of their legislators.

When approached to sign the referendum petitions, and, if the referendum petition campaign is successful, during the ensuing campaigns for and against the issue, Missourians may have to decide the "hierarchy" of their state government, perhaps by asking themselves the following questions:

1. Is an elected state legislator to be considered as more important, less important or equal to a hired state employee?

2. Should legislators have their own retirement system, as set up in House Bill 480, or should they be included in the system for all State of Missouri employees?

3. What is a fair and reasonable retirement plan?

The citizens of Missouri will have to provide the answers to these and other questions to make their decisions. And the answers will have to come soon-- the October 13 deadline for receiving the referendum petitions is only about two weeks away.

NEW TOURISM DIRECTOR COMMENTS ON FUTURE

In a recent speech in Stockton, Jones said he was looking ahead toward the completion of the Stockton dam and the possibilities for development on the 250- mile shoreline.

"Camping along will be meaningful for this area, for campers need groceries, gasoline, and entertainment and the premium on good camp sites, publicly and privately operated, is constantly going up," he said.

Jones noted that water sports were also attracting the attention of more tourists, saying that 85 per cent of persons surveyed said their camping trips were water-oriented. And, he added, Missouri is blessed with lots of rivers, streams and lakes.

"Who could have forecast, for instance, with any degree of accuracy what the Lake of the Ozarks would mean with the advent of Bagnell Dam years ago. Some people with vision, I'm sure, had an inkling of it, but I would guess it surpassed even the most imaginative."

Jones said the recreational area upsurge in the state will be very good for the outstate regions where more money will be made in fulfilling the needs of tourists. He also said non-metropolitan residents have the extra advantage of being closer to new recreational areas and can take full advantage of them easier.

Absence of Doctors, Ease of Drugs Hazard in Nursing Homes

Editor's Note: Many nursing home patients haven't seen a doctor in months—some not for years. Instead, telephone medicine is a fact of life. This is the fourth of five articles.

By JAMES R. POLK

For the sick and dying, the average amount of doctor's care may be only a few minutes a month.

Of all a doctor's patients at office and hospital, the one in the nursing home is usually the last he sees.

In state after state across the nation, an Associated Press investigation has found nurses meet emergencies by telephoning doctors who prescribe drugs without having seen their patients for weeks or months.

"Telephone medicine is a fact of life in nursing homes," said one state's top inspector.

"We'll even do it with some narcotics," said another state nursing supervisor in New Jersey. "You know how hard it is to get a doctor at 3 o'clock in the morning."

Many doctors, already hard pressed to keep up their hospital cases, don't find the time to visit nursing home patients with any regularity. Other doctors admit frankly they feel they can do more for the patients who have a chance at life than the aged and the dying.

An Illinois nursing home operator said, "I was shocked the first time I asked one doctor, 'Why don't you come more often?' and he said, 'To tell the truth, it depresses the hell out of me.'"

Both the government and the medical profession now back the goal of a visit to nursing home patients by a doctor a minimum of once a month.

But in Topeka, Kans., a comprehensive official study of the area's nursing homes last year showed fully one-fourth of all the patients had not been seen by a doctor in at least six months.

In one large Topeka home, the total was three-fourths without a doctor's visit in half a year.

In another government-financed study of more than 100 homes throughout Minnesota, researchers computed the average amount of doctor's care per patient at less than 2½ minutes a week.

With federal programs now paying $1.6 billion a year to finance most of the nursing home care in the nation through medicaid and medicare, a crackdown is on the books. But it has yet to reach the bedside.

A sleeper proposal in new standards adopted this summer for medicaid, the huge program of health care for the poor, requires a minimum of one doctor's visit each month.

Frank Frantz, a federal official who helped draw up the new medicaid regulations, said, "The lack of a doctor is at the root of a lot of the problems in nursing homes. But I don't think the 30-day requirement will solve them."

Frantz said, "It's a question of how the doctor uses the nursing home. I think it's a difference of whether a nursing home is to be where a physician puts a person or where he practices medicine."

States usually require doctors to sign their telephone orders afterwards, but are lax on how soon they must do it. Arizona for instance, instructs a doctor to sign the records on his next trip—but requires he visit the nursing home only once a year.

In Minnesota, nursing homes mail the doctors a form to sign, and the patient may remain unseen by the physician for weeks.

Minnesota does require that, unless a doctor spells out a specific period for a prescription, the drugs should be cut off after seven days. But enforcement is slipshod.

In one Minnesota home a chloral hydrate prescription had run for six years without any specific instruction.

The case embarassed the city's inspector, who serves on the board of directors of the same church-owned nursing home in what she said "may be a conflict of interest."

The inspector told the practical nurse on duty, "You don't order a drug forever, you know."

"That's what we've been doing," answered the nurse. "What else can you do? So many of our doctors aren't coming in. We have a hard time even contacting doctors by telephone."

The absence of doctors, the diagnosis from a distance and the easy use of drugs add up to an unhealthy situation in many of America's nursing homes.

In California, inspectors said half of all violations of state regulations they find in nursing homes involve proplems in carrying out the patient care ordered by doctors.

"Lots of times things are ordered and the nurse doesn't write it down, or she writes it down incorrectly," said Dr. Gottlieb L. Oirth of Los Angeles' health department.
